Desegregation ordered speeded up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under new court instructions, the Health, Education and Welfare Department must take steps today to speed desegregation in 17 Southern and border states.

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, following a hearing Monday, denied the Nixon administration's request for postponement of a lower court order requiring the desegregation step-up.

The lower court ruled Feb. 16 that today is the deadline for HEW to notify 116 school districts that they face the loss of federal funds because they have not met desegregation guidelines.

HEW also was ordered to tell another 85 districts by today that they must explain statistics indicating they still discriminate against black children.

Government lawyers who sought the delay argued that HEW had shown good faith in implementing court-ordered school desegregation plans. They said HEW was awaiting congressional clarification of the Supreme Court's busing order before enforcing it.

The NAACP Legal Defense Fund opposed any delay.

The appeals court did not rule on the merits of the lower court decision.

The appeals court pointed out that its order did not mean that federal funds will be cut off immediately—only that HEW must notify the schools that their desegregation efforts are being questioned.

Hearings must be held by HEW before it can cut off funds to a school district.

In his ruling, U.S. Dist. Court Judge John Pratt said 74 districts reneged on desegregation plans, and 42 were determined by HEW in 1971 as presumably violating the Supreme Court's Swann (busing) decision.

Peter E. Holmes of HEW's Office for Civil Rights submitted a deposition

Standing guard over their newly "captured" prize caboose are Tod McGhee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim McGhee; Stevie Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Ellis; and Rusy Limbaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lambaugh, all of Chaffee. The caboose was recently donated to the city of Chaffee by Frisco Railroad Co. The National Guard loaded the caboose onto a truck and moved it to the city park where the three boys found it a great playground to act out their take-over or to just watch the landscape go by. The Chaffee Jaycees sponsored the placing of the car in the park.

On bonds for Arvin site

Dexter bank low bidder

DEXTER — Citizens Bank of Dexter was low bidder Monday night on the $100,000 general obligation bonds for the Arvin Industries site with a bid of $47,861.66 and received all bonds at a 4.7 per cent interest rate.

A total of five bids were opened at the City Council meeting. Other bidders included four Kansas City firms, E. F. Hutton and Co., Inc., Commerce Bank, Z. Zahner and Co. and Perry, Adams and Lewis Inc.

The general obligation bonds are for purchase of the site and site improvements for the Arvin Plant west of Dexter.

The council agreed to pay Norman Lewis of Kansas City, a representative of Perry, Adams and Lewis Inc., $2,000 for his services in handling the general obligation bonds.

The council voted unanimously to sign a contract with Lemons Brother Gravel Co. for the use of a landfill site of 75 acres approximately two and one- half miles north of Dexter.

The three-man committee of Eldon Cooper, J. T. Williams and James Carney, who recommended the landfill site after several meetings with the company, discussed various points in the contract.

Included are a two- year contract beginning on July 1 this year and ending on July 30 of 1975 at a cost of $1.94 per resident in the city. A yearly cost of $11,686.56 for the city's population of 6,024 will be payable monthly to Lemons Gravel Co.

All citizens with city stickers will be allowed to dump trash at the site at no extra cost. Commercial haulers who bring refuse from two or more houses or businesses will be required to pay $3 per load in addition to the city's payment.

All bob trucks will be required to pay $7.50 per load; trailer trucks, $15 per load; cotton trailers, $15 per load; and packer trucks, $20 per load. The fees will be paid at the landfill site. The site will be open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 7 a.m. to 11 a.m. on Saturdays.

It was pointed out that the landfill site must be approved by the state, and if not approved, the city will not be held liable for the payment of the landfill usage. If the site should require the company to stop burning trees and tree limbs, an additional charge will be

Robbery suspect in Miss Co jail

CHARLESTON— Jerry Vann, 21, of Cairo, Ill., waived extradition and was returned to Mississippi County jail Monday where he is being held on charges of strong- arm robbery, according to Deputy Sheriff Robert Smith.

Smith said Terry Brock of Charleston was robbed of $16 dollars about 11:15 p.m. Sunday as he was leaving Lane Tavern in Wyatt.

Two black men reportedly jumped him and while one held him, the other took the money from his pocket.

Another Cairo man, Charlie Brown Jr., is being sought on the same charge by Illinois authorities, Smith said.

Vann will appear in Magistrate Court Thursday.

Recreation plan to be discussed

A summer recreation program proposed by the Exchange Club will be discussed at a Planning and Zoning Commission meeting tonight at 7:30 in the City Administrative Building.

The program would have volunteers from various civic clubs supervising recreation programs.

Other topics to be discussed include consideration of a subdivision in the first addition to Hunters Acres West and rezoning five lots in Hunter Acres from single family to multiple family.

The commission will also consider rezoning property in the Sunset subdivision from duplex to planned trailer court.

Pool readied

The Sikeston Jaycee swimming pool is being prepared for another year's use as repairs are made on cracks in the concrete caused by winter freezing. Here, Keith Stoelting removes old caulking compound from joints in the pool. The caulking must be replaced before the old and new sections of the pool floor and deck can be painted for the coming season.

$321,077 available to county schools

WASHINGTON— Rep. Bill D. Burlison, Missouri 10th District Democrat, has announced the awarding of additional funds from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to schools in Scott County for use in programs for educationally deprived children.

According to the Cape Girardeau congressman, the funds are authorized under the provisions of Part A, Title I, of the Elementary and Secoondary Education Act of 1965 (Public Law 89-10, as amended) for fiscal year 1973. The total allocation available to the county is $321,077.74.

Burlison explained that the awards may be used to provide enriched instructional services, employment and in- service training of teachers, aides, staff, pre- school services, work- study programs, parental counseling and early age identification and diagnosis of handicapped children.

The representative noted that a total of 2,304 children in the county between ages of 5 and 17 are considered educationally deprived. Of these, 1,776 live in families having yearly incomes under $2,000. Another 448 live in families receiving over $2,000 in Aid for Dependent Children benefits, and 40 live in foster homes.

Burlison remarked that each county must submit an organized plan and budget for the use of these funds in order to receive their allotted sum.

Bootheel sightings continue

A convention of UFOs?

By PAT GROJEAN

The skies of Southeast Missouri apparently have been teeming with weird objects during the past few weeks. With so many sightings of Unidentified Flying Objects, it almost seems like an invasion or a convention, and looking for UFOs may well become the "in" way to spend and evening in the Bootheel.

UFOs have reportedly been sighted in recent weeks in the skies over Piedmont, Bernie, Charleston, Dexter and Ellsinore, according to people and newspapers in the areas.

At Bernie and Piedmont, there seems to be a family of UFOs, not just one. Just in the past week, Bernie and Charleston citizens have been sighting strange objects, which seem to appear only at night and which Piedmont residents have been sighting for several weeks.

One of the objects is reported to have landed at Ellsinore, which is about 20 air miles from Piedmont.

Sheriffs, deputies, photographers and other residents are among those who have reported seeing the eerie sights.

Around Piedmont, UFO experts have been called in to investigate. Most Piedmont residents reportedly still believe there are no UFOs.

About 15 days ago the objects, which attracted national attention a few weeks ago at Piedmont, were first sighted over Bernie. Stoddard County Sheriff Ralph Mouser, Deputy Helen Triplett, well-known Bernie photographer Norman Swafford and numerous other persons reported seeing a strange object in the air. On April 10 at least three UFOs were reportedly seen over Bernie.

The brightly colored "something" has been attracting attention not only among Bernie residents, but also some Dexter residents who have sighted it. The Dexter Statesman reported that on the night of April 10 a "large number of automobiles were parked along the main road leading to the west out of Bernie."

All people who saw it described the strange lights the same way. The UFOs have been high in the skies on clear nights, which seems to rule out ideas that it could be a reflection of ground lights off the clouds.

The lights seem to change color from white to red to blue and several hues in between. They move across the sky in irregular manner as if starting and stopping and changing speeds.

On April 6, a UFO was reportedly sighted in Charleston. Mrs. Dorothy Thompson of Charleston said she was getting ready to watch the 8 o'clock movie. Her television set went off, then came back on and she saw a bright flash in her kitchen.

She looked out the back door and an egg- shaped object was at treetop level. The top was red and the bottom solid white. The lights did not flash and it made no sound, Mrs. Thompson reported. The whole incident lasted about three minutes, she said.

In a letter to The Daily Standard, Mrs. Thompson said, "As God is my witness, it really happened to me. One may be skeptical about such things, but when one sees it with their own eyes, they know it is so! I am not one to 'tell tales out of school', so to speak. This really happened to me and it was really weird and unnerving."

The UFOs at Piedmont and Bernie were usually spotted between 10 and 11 p.m.

Since the sightings, rumors are running wild. There have been stories of UFOs landing in fields, swooping down over towns and others which are wilder. Most of these have been discounted as rumor, but they still spread.

The Dexter Statesman reports that no one has yet appeared to be frightened by the strange objects and most persons have seemed to accept it as something up there in the sky. Other people merely joke about the sightings.

But there seems to be something weird up there and on clear nights people are turning out to just sit in their cars and watch. Some keep their cameras ready to record any unusual sight.

EASTER SUNDAY

Easter is almost upon us again. The date is April 22. In the Christian world, Easter Sunday commemorates the Ressurrection of Christ. Easter customs, as we practice them in the U. S. today, are a singular tribute to the spirit of Easter and to the quiet freshness of a Spring morning when one can almost feel, for a few hours, the prevading sense of tranquility and consideration of our fellowman that 2,000 years ago released humanity from the bondage of sheer barbarism.

Many capture the spirit of Easter by going to Church. The simple Easter egg hunt and the tradition of the Easter bonnet lend joy and color to the occasion. All of the ways in which Easter is observed hold a certain humility -- as they should. Easter is a day of civilizing influence. It is merely one day out of 365, but it is a day that expresses the way we should live throughout the year -- in humble respect for the unseen power that guides our lives.

YOU USED UP A TREE LAST YEAR

Here's a thought well in advance of Arbor Day:

In 1973, each man, woman and child in the United States will "consume" approximately one 16-inch-thick, 100- foot- high tree.

The estimate is figured on the basis of each tree yielding one ton of wood and wood products, and on the fact that our comsumption in 1972 was 203 million tons.

More than 30 per cent each ton will go into pulp and paper products. The rest will be used for home construction, furniture and thousands of other products that utilize wood.

According to the American Forest Institute, by the year 2000 each American will be using a tree and a half every year, or 50 per cent more — and there will be a lot more Americans.

Fortunately, wood is a renewable resource and one that can be expanded. For example, in the largest single such effort ever carried out by a private company, Weyerhaeuser Co. is planting more than 100 million seedlings in its western forest lands.

The aim, says president George H. Weyerhaeuser, is to help make sure America never runs out of wood, as well as to preserve the delicate forest environment by replacing what man takes for his use with growing young trees.

PART IS GOOD, PART NOT NEEDED R

A law introduced at Jefferson City would absolve landowners from liability if anyone be injured while on their land without specific permission. We hope it passes. It never has been just that a landowner could be sued for some act over which he had no control, and while damages have seldom been collected, the owner nevertheless had the possibility of a lawsuit facing him if anyone was injured.

Another section of the law would require written permission from a landowner before anyone could enter upon his or her premises. That part isn't need. We already have a trespass law which seems to cover the situation.

STALINISM LIVES

Alexander Solzhenitsyn's ONE DAY IN THE LIFE OF IVAN DENISOVICH graphically describes subhuman conditions in Soviet slave labor camps under Stalin. Far- leftists claim that "de-Stalinization" has brought an end to such barbarities, but a news story in the LONDON TIMES shows that little has changed in Soviet Russia except the leaders' names.

The TIMES reported in late December that several political prisoners in the Mordivinian labor camp had appealed to the International Red cross, protesting a system aimed at "gradually transforming a person into an unthinking, intimidated and obedient animal.'

Two evils were singled out. One was deliberate starvation of those prisoners who would not allow themselves to become "intimidated and obedient." The authorities would withold half the legal minimum of food calories, with serious illness the result.

The signers of the appeal also protested the uncivilized state of medical care. Medical supplies were almost totally lacking, there were no first aid facilities and doctors would deliberately make the wrong diagnosis in order to deprive the uncooperative prisoner of proper care.

The signers of this appeal knew that they faced retaliation for their action, but courageously went ahead. One of the signers was Simas Kudirka, the Lithuanian seaman who tried to defect to our country in 1970, but was sent back to Soviet authorities by the U.S. Coast Guard. Clearly Kudirka has retained all of the bravery which prompted his attempted escape from slavery.

If President Nixon is eager to talk to Soviet slavermasters, he should bring up the subject of barbarous treatment pf political prisoners. H. L. Hunt

A RESPONSIVE CHORD

A short time ago, the president of the American Medical Association, Dr. Walter C. Bornemeier, expressed his ideas in the magazine The Reader's Digest on how to relieve the nation's physician shortage. He suggests changes in the medical education system to reduce the length of time spent in premedical and medical studies without lessening the quality of medical education. He also suggests upgrading of training and responsibilities of health care personnel, such as nurses, thus relieving doctors of many routine duties.

Dr. Bornemeier's approach to this phase of the health care problem has struck a responsive chord in many people, judging from comments received by The Reader's Digest. From a Navy hospital corpsman, Dr. Bornemeier received the following observation: "I have just read your article ... I have a strong desire to continue using my ... training and experience and would appreciate any ... information you may be able to send me." A registered nurse in Washington, D. C., writes, "I am interested in the physician's assistant (training) program ... I am looking for something better in the field of medicine that does not include becoming an administrator. I would like to stay with the patient." A Michigan truck driver says, "For 12 years I worked as a surgical technician ... I ... read your comments about new programs for medical training ... please send me more information." An Indiana insurance agent and former military medic observes, "Your article ... must be the most practical, direct and readily attainable solution to our nation's health care problems ..."

The point of all this is that it shows how leaders of the medical profession are moving in response to explosive health care demands that have been a counterpart of federal programs such as medicare and medicaid. Their actions demonstrate the flexibility and resourcefulness of U. S. medicine under the most trying circumstances.

DAY CARE CENTERS CAN BE PROFITABLE MICHIGAN FIRM SAYS

President Patrick J. Callihan of Provincial House, Inc. of Lansing, Mich. says that his company is investing $1.1 million in centers for the day care of children.

Until now, Provincial House's health care business has been concentrated on operation of health care centers through its chain of modern nursing facilities. The expansion into child care gives the company a position as one of the largest operators of children's centers in the United States.

"With eight child care centers in operation," the subsidiary's president, Joyce Hatton, said, "and with each unit able to care for 200 children on a morning and afternoon shift basis we now have a daily capacity for the care and pre-school training of 1,600 children. Also, we are planning to build four new centers in Michigan with the modules purchased from Kiddie Care Corp., which will increase our capacity to 2,400 children."

Speaking for the parent company, Provincial House, Mrs. Callihan commented: "We have now entered a second big area of care, and we are engaged in exploratory talks looking to expand our administrative capacity to other health fields, where present facilities are inadequate and which we believe can be operated on a business like profitable basis."

TAXES! TAXES!
(Render Unto Caesar)

When I was but a little lad,
my mother said to me;
Put all your pennies in the bank, and keep your conscience free.
I've tried to follow her advice and save for rainy days,
But my umbrella sprang a leak with taxes I must raise.

When I'm awakened from my snooze, I pay a tax on the soap I use;
A tax paid brush will smooth my hair, there's an extra tax on the clothes I wear.
I pay a levy on the food I eat, with an added charge if I ask for meat.
The auto tax is the worst I've seen, there's a seven cent tax on gasoline.

A tax on oil and a tax on the road, a driver's tax to increase the load,
An income tax in April I pay, with a County tax along in May.
Then the Township tax comes slipping by, and the School tax hits me in July.
Personal tax, and a poll tax too, both hop in 'fore the summer's through.

A movie show, now a cigarette, there's another tax you can't forget.
They squeeze my purse with an extra clamp when they put a tax on the postage stamp.
An inheritance tax, my lawyer said, will have to be paid when I am dead.
I'm taxed to live and I'm taxed to die, you cannot beat the game however you try.

I wonder if the day will come when I, without a fee,
Can keep one dollar for myself and hold my conscience free.
When Gabriel calls me to my rest, I'll gladly face the facts,
And take that dollar to my grave to pay the heavenly tax.

CORPULENT AMERICANS RESULT OF OVER-EATING AND AFFLUENCE

The U. S. Public Health Service estimates that from 10 to 12% of all families with annual incomes of over $12,000 were so much over-weight that their health was being jeopardized. The corpulent society as far as middle income families are concerned is on the increase. The Health Insurance Institute reports that middle income families have gotten more obese at a steady rate for the past 20 years. It takes no expert to connect these with early deaths from heart troubles and other diseases.

Experts blame high consumption of convenience and high calorie foods and between meal snacks.

What to do about it? Here's what they recommend:

1. Drink more milk and cut down on other fats.
2. Eat bread that is enriched with riboflavin and wheat germ.
3. At least twice a month eat broiled liver.
4. Avoid fried meats. Broil, boil or roast meat, fowl and fish.
5. Eat more raw fruits and steamcook more green and yellow vegetables.
6. Abandon freak diets and crunchy snacks and high calorie convenience foods.

YOUNG PEOPLE ARE THE HOPE OF THE U.S.

Republic USA is blessed with so many wonderful young people that it is almost a miracle. We all need to pause ever so often and give thanks for the vast majority of good young people who bless our land.

A good thing to do is to notice good works by good young people and call attention to them. Letters to the editor provide an effective means to help publicize the good works of young people and to counteract the excessive publicity given to the few destroyers who clutter up the national news networks.

Our good young people know that freedom is vital and that liberty is not filth and bad manners and dirty clothing and dirty words. Youth seeks knowledge and a cause, but most of all youth wants to know that we seasoned campaigners believe in liberty and God and country and are willing to stand up and work for what we believe in.

Youth is impatient, and we should be thankful for it. The problem is that young people have not been taught about Freedom and how Freedom has made it possible that they don't have to worry about epidemics or famine wiping out millions of lives in one season, as happens in lands whose founders did not pass on to youth a heritage of Freedom.

Youth wants to enjoy. Freedom can be much more fun, for young and old alike, than following along with the herd of destroyers who hate Freedom and humanity. Good young people are organizing and passing the word to their peers that outwitting the enemies of Freedom is much more fun than falling in with their plans and being used to destroy Freedom. Youth is the hope of the future and will be the salvation of Republic USA. HLH

Wants Our Troops: Fabled Singapore's Underpaid Workers, Futuristic Automation, Computers, Slashing U. S. Jobs

WASHINGTON — It was festive at the White House the other Tuesday night when the Nixons honored a very urbane Chinese --- Singapore's Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew. He drank. He toasted. He mixed. He laughed. He loved opera star Mary Costa, especially when she sang, "I Bought Me a Cat." And he said the nicest, most sophisticated things about President Nixon and America.

But it wasn't always so. Very important, this. Innocents aboard, often in packaged tours, anticipate the little city- state of Singapore as the home of Raffles, "Come Home, Bill Bailey" and the Singapore Sling. Truth is, Singapore has us in a sling.

And the suave 49- year - old Lee Kuan Yew, one of the world's most active nonaligned Socialist leaders, got us there and is helping to keep us there.

There was a time, not too long ago, I recall Mr. Lee was very loath to be seen in the presence of an Occidental. Especially a West European. Doubly especially an American. There's much on this in the Asian section of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Mr. Lee, British educated, has been a militant Socialist since his student days in Cambridge, England. He returned home (he's a third generation Singaporean) and got into politics and the labor movement -- the same there. He was a labor lawyer (legal adviser) to railroad, traction, and waterfront workers, teachers union and other "locals."

This became his base. Quite revolutionary. Quite harassing to our people there. He organized his Socialist People's Action Party. He won. Later, the British pulled out. They were the heaviest employers of labor.

So Socialist Lee Kuan Yew who detested capitalism in general, the U. S. in particular, and who was quite rough with private citizen Richard Nixon during the latter's 1967 visit, and who now believes it would be "catastrophic" if American troops left Southeast Asia, decided to save his people with the one formula he knew would work: capitalism.

Mr. Lee began turning his city - state into a vast industrial center. And did, and is doing, quite well. Enough to dump almost slave- labor wage products of all sorts into the U. S. at an astronomically increasing tempo. For example, in 1968 Singapore mills sold some 200,000 square yards of man-made fiber in the U. S. Four years later, 1972, this figure rose to 47 million. Yes, millions of square yards, some 97 per cent of which came in the form of apparel. The wage rate there is about 20 cents an hour.

Not too long ago a non-union Singapore plant was struck. The workers were earning 7 to 21 cents an hour. Their demand: an increase of 12 cents a month semiannually. Thus report recent visitors there (about eight weeks ago).

Across the world the People's Action Party sends word that it has a fine "industrial relations climate." It says its workers rarely strike. It has a pamphlet which talks of the benefits of production in Singapore.

It has a PQR drive -- propserity through quality campaign.

"We need to have the closest collaboration between labor, business, government and the consuming public," says Hon Sui Sen, Singapore's minister of finance. "I am glad to note the progress and rapid changes in the manufacturing sector over the past few years. There has been a broadening of the industrial base. The range of products being processed, assembled and manufactured locally has widened. Participation of foreign investment has contributed to greater entrepreneurship and high technology in the manufacturing sector. Our industries are becoming more and more sophisticated, and direct export of our manufactured products has increased some 20 times that of ten years ago."

There now are Japanese, German, French and some American establishments. Most are in partnership with Singaporeans.

This Socialist state does strange things with wages. Construction workers earn about $20 a week.

Members of the party at the White House that Tuesday, April 10, night did not note Prime Minister Lee telling this to our own Secretary of Labor Pete Brennan; Tom Murphy, president of the Bricklayers; and Joe Power, president of the Plasters and Cement Masons who were among the guests.

Machinists get some 40 cents an hour; spinners of textile cloth 20 cents hourly.

The highest paid Singaporean skilled worker, according to union chiefs who've just returned, is some $35 a week. Lowest paid in technical fields is $12.50 a week.

Singapore has become one of the world's best- promoted production centers -- new plants, new automation, new assembly lines. And labor peace, boasts Mr. Lee's Socialist People's Action Party which is so nonaligned and so anti-imperialist, and counts so much on our troops staying in Thailand.

But when the U. S. asked him a few weeks ago to agree, as have Japan, Taiwan, Hong Kong, S. Korea, Macao and Malaysia, to voluntary limit exports to the U. S., Mr. Lee's Socialist, low- wage government said, no, indeed.

Apparently his philsophical socialism doesn't get in the way of his eagerness for capitalist dollars. His little brave new world, his city-state, is prospering. Small wonder he had so fine a time at the party.

America's workers might take a good look at that Singapore sling -- "prosperty Through Quality and Reliability." And productivity, I might add.

Conspirators Demanded A White House Contact

WASHINGTON — In secret testimony before the grand jury, Watergate defendant James McCord has confided that his coconspirator, Howard Hunt, last July feared the President's campaign chiefs were abandoning them and wrote a three- page letter demanding "to contact someone in the White House."

Thereafter, money allegedly was delivered to Hunt's attorney, William O. Bittman, for distribution to the defandants. Mrs. Hunt, acting as the courier, arranged to meet McCord at various places and slip him cash payments. McCord testified that he received around $45,000 after the Watergate break-in for "salary" and legal expenses.

The grand jury is trying to track down who authorized the payments and whether the money was intended to buy the defendants' silence. Bribery to obstruct justice, of course, is a serious federal violation.

As McCord related it to the grand jury, he received a phone call around July 20 from Hunt. "He asked me," said McCord, "to go to a pay phone away from the house, where I could call him, which I did ...

'AFRAID WE MIGHT TALK'

"He felt the Committee to Re-elect the President (was) trying to do him in and to do us in for good and to put us away and abandon us. This was his, almost his exact words.

"And he said that he was going to do, well, he said words to the effect that he was going to now assume a leadership role in dealing with the committee. McCord said he, too, felt "they were more interested in keeping us in jail than they were in getting us out, because they were afraid we might talk."

McCord later learned from Mrs. Hunt that her husband had written a three-page letter which was read to the campaign committee's attorney, Kenneth W. Parkinson. Recounted McCord: "She said that when Bittman read the letter to Parkinson that Hunt wanted to contact someone in the White House, Parkinson said, 'Give us a week." And Hunt came back and said, 'No, you get two days.'

"So they said, 'Okay. Something will be worked out in a couple of days.' And that something, it appeared to me, had to do with a contact and it also had something to do with the funding for the defendants ..."

CODE NAME: 'CHRIS'

Not long afterward, Mrs. Hunt, using the code name "Chris," called to arrange the first transfer of funds. "I went over to her car and she gave me an envelope and she said, 'This is the payment for your salary for five months, beginning in July through whatever it is' -- I think it was November ...

"I asked her if she wanted a receipt and she said, no, it was not necessary, that she would be making an accounting to Mr. Bittman for it." McCord also talked to her about legal fees. "They wanted to know," she reported back to him later, "If you're going to keep quiet."

Still later, Hunt brought up the same question with him directly. Testified McCord: "(Hunt) said, 'we have legal fee money for you.' And I said, 'what goes along with it?' ... He put it this way, 'Everybody's naturally interested in knowing whether you're going to keep quiet.'"

McCord felt this was merely a maneuver to keep him quiet until the election, so he put off Hunt until Novemember 7. Then he decided "to go ahead and take the legal fee money." But he refused to be bound if the legal fees were offered "as a weapon to keep us from saying anything." Hunt urged him to go ahead and take (the money) and we'll see what happens."

The question came up again at a meeting with Mrs. Hunt on November 30. As McCord interpreted the conversation, "essentially there wasn't going to be any more money unless you fellows agree to plead guilty and take executive clemency at a later time and keep your mouth shut."

'MORE THAN A YEAR'

He quoted her as saying, "they want to know if more than one year is okay with you ... staying in jail more than one year, and then executive clemency." McCord turned down the deal, saying he was going to plead not guilty and fight the case. "And she repeated this to me three more times," he recalled, "and it was in the contest of, 'well, I'm not sure they're going to give you any more money ...'

"The meaning was very clear, that 'Unless you agree to go along with this, you can forget about any further salary continuance.' And I said, 'whatever will be will be."

Footnote: After the break-in squad was arrested inside Democratic party headquarters, McCord testified, the higher-ups first wanted to blame it on the CIA. But neither Hunt nor McCord would go along with that cover story. Then there was talk about blaming the whole affair on Gordon Liddy, the Watergate ringleader. McCord quoted Mrs. Hunt as saying she had been told "that there were now plans to charge Liddy. Some type of plans were underway to charge Liddy stole the money and bribed Hunt and McCord to perform the operation. I said, 'well you can pass the word that I won't stand for that ... It's not true. It's not the way it happened.'" Parkinson has denied any role in getting money to the defendants. Bittman said, "We have consistently refused to comment on any allegations in the case. I see no reason at all to change that policy at this time."

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — His face is a bon mot...his mind is that of a gentler Voltaire...when he sits down at the piano, everybody laughs — then the air is stilled by his magic.

And on or off the stage, Victor Borge is still probably the most entertaining person in America to be with.

The "unmelancholy Dane" was already the Noel Coward of his native Denmark in 1941 when, a refugee from the Nazis, he arrived here virtually penniless and unable to speak English.

For months he lived on 25 cents a day while he haunted movie houses and learned the language listening to films.

Now 64, wealthy and world famous, tempered by time and mellowed by hardship, Borge is at the summit of his career. He gives 150 or more concerts a year.

In his own words, here is the philosopher at the piano, in an informal luncheon interview:

"It has been an enormous and invaluable experience to live through things that couldn't happen — but did.

"Life is a gift. To me every morning is a new life.

"It should be compulsory for everyone to confront some of the miseries of this world — to go through a children's hospital once a week, to open our windows and see what is really going on. We should see the corners of our society. This may not solve our problems, but we will be at least aware of them.

"I believe in defensive living. Expect the worst because that is expectable, but be deeply grateful when things go right. What confidence it takes to tell a friend we shall see him a week from Monday. How dare we?

"You ought to have to earn whatever you get. Money should not enable you to buy it.

"Laughter is as important as anything in life. With a lighter mind you don't weigh so much.

"I like yellow-colored things because they are sunny and smiling. I seldom use green inside the house, because there is so much of it outside in nature.

"I like home kitchen smells, but I like the odors of any thing that has done me good — even hospitals.

"I also like any agreeable woman...shopping in hardware stores...cheese...and the feel of soil or piano keys at my fingertips.

"I believe in the harmonization of things — that's what life is all about.

"I don't like being the victim of something mechanical inflicted on me and not of my own choosing — such as airplane music. But once I rode up and down in an elevator for 18 minutes listening to a Brahms concerto.

"I dislike people who have no sense of humor, because I do not know what to say to them. It is like playing tennis alone.

"Everything we do is done for a purpose. Nothing is automatic.

"I know so much perhaps I should run for president."

Rep. Burlison urges disaster declaration

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Rep. Bill D. Burlison, 10th district Democrat, telegraphed President Nixon last week urging him to declare a major disaster in 86 Missouri counties, including 14 counties in the 10th Congressional District.

In expressing his concern, the Missouri Democrat said,

"The $33 million devastation wrought by the flooding of the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers has prompted Governor Bond to formally request you to declare 86 Missouri counties a major disaster area."

"Fourteen of those counties are in the 10th District. Damage in the District has been conservatively estimated in excess of $11 million, of which damage to agriculture alone is $8.5 million," he said.

It is important to realize that the Governor was required to prepare figures on which to base his request, but the flood waters prevented detailed on-site evaluation. It is probable, therefore, that the actual damage will significantly exceed the estimates prepared for him by representatives of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, the Corps of Engineers, the American Red Cross and various state officials, Burlison added.

"The inundated farmlands are vital to American's food production and their non-use will very likely increase the upward pressure on food prices in the near future," he added.

"For this important natural reason as well as humanitarian concern for the dislocation of so many innocent people, I am constrained to request that you take the most prompt action possible, consistent with your pervasive responsibility to give proper effect to the law of the land.

2 injured in Bootheel auto accidents

Two traffic accidents Monday in the Bootheel area resulted in injuries to two persons, according to the highway patrol.

Three vehicles collided at 7:20 a.m. two miles north of Steele at the Junction of Route H and Highway 61.

The accident occurred when a school bus, driven north by Berlon Woody, 47, of Steele, was stopping to make a left turn and was struck in the left rear by a tractor trailer driven by Willie Clark Bell, 38, of Jackson, Miss. The Bell truck then struck a car driven south by Shery Inez Schlegel, 21, of Steele almost head on.

Miss Schlegel received head and face cuts and was taken to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Hayti.

James Leroy Deprow Jr, 26, of Tallapoosa suffered head cuts at 5:40 p.m. when the car in which he was riding went out of control on a gravel road two miles west of Tallapoosa and struck a dirt embankment.

Steve Randy Reed, 21, of Tallapposa, driver of the car, was not injured.

Missouri month behind deadline on air standards

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas and Missouri will be about a month behind Sunday's deadline for submitting plans for meeting federal air quality standards.

The Environmental Protection Agency has ordered 18 states to produce such a plan to achieve 1975 standards.

The seven-county area of metropolitan Kansas City, on both sides of the state line, is the big problem for Kansas and Missouri. State officials have said they hope to complete their proposals by May 15.

The George A. Jutze consulting firm, hired by EPA, has said half of the vehicles in the area may need $25 to $30 in repairs to meet emission standards. Also, the firm said, half of the 750,000 vehicles would not pass the test the first time.

Three plans are being discussed: Mandatory engine tuneups, reducing the number of cars in daily traffic, and gasoline rationing.

Traffic might be reduced by eliminating public parking and placing a surtax on parking lots, along with improvement of mass transit, it was pointed out.

Officials of the two states said their final plan could concentrate on any of the three proposals or be a combination of all three.

Mansion tours are scheduled

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Mrs. Carolyn Bond announced today a program of regular tours of the governor's mansion, starting June 5.

The governor's wife conducted a brief tour of the mansion for the news media and said:

"This is our home and yet it belongs to the people of Missouri... Now, for the first time in the history of the mansion, it will be open for regular tours."

The one-hour tours will be at 10 and 11 a.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Tickets for as many as 150 persons in a group can be obtained through the office of Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

The Bonds moved into the mansion earlier this month although their second-floor living quarters are still being renovated. They are living in guest rooms on the third floor.

Asked how she liked it, Mrs. Bond joked:

"The trains make a lot of noise. They are right under our bedroom window."

The mansion is located on the Missouri River bluff a few blocks east of the capitol. A number of railroad tracks parallel the river at the base of the bluff.

The tours will be conducted only on the first floor of the mansion, which is of French Italian architecture. The first floor was renovated during the administration of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and his wife, Betty.

A group of 25 Jefferson City women volunteered to direct the tour program. Mrs. Bond said she will conduct some of the tours.

The first lady, dressed attractively in a white suit with a multi-colored scarf, told many stories on the origin of certain pieces of furniture in the 101-year-old mansion and related some events, such as when the outlaw Frank James supposedly surrendered to Gov. Thomas Crittenden in the front room to the left of the main hall.

When the tour was complete a reporter asked Mrs. Bond about the much-publicized "$19,000 bathroom," which is being constructed on the second floor for the bonds.

She laughed and said:

"It takes a while to build a $19,000 bathroom. It's not a $19,000 bathroom at all," she said, explaining there was much plumbing and wiring to be done in connection with the project. It has been criticized by some Democratic legislators because of its cost.

Some reporters asked to see the construction on the second floor, but a highway patrolman was posted at the bottom of the stairway. Mrs. Bond said the bathroom would be available for inspection when completed.

Ann Landers

The bus driver is a bad driver

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter for all 100 of us who ride a public school bus. It was inspired by the squawk from the bus driver who was fed up with unruly kids who make driving dangerous.

This year we've had six different drivers. The worst of the bunch is the one we have now. To state the problem frankly, she can't drive. Also she needs to get her wrist watch fixed.

The bus is supposed to be at our stop at 7:45 a.m. Yesterday she showed up at 8:05. Three times this semester she appeared at 8:30. Once it was 9:00 a.m, which meant everybody missed the first class.

The other day we very nearly hit a car pulling out of a driveway. Twenty kids saw it but she didn't. This sort of thing happens a lot.

What's more, we are pakced in like sardines, two and three in one seat. Some kids have to sit in the aisles. We've signed petitions galore and nothing happens. Any suggestions?--- Last Stop In Michigan

Dear Last: If every kid on your bus sends a copy of this column to the superintendent of public schools, he'll get 100 beefs against the same driver. No superintendent can ignore such a protest. I assume your facts are accurate and the teacher of the first class in the morning will verify the allegations of tardiness described in this letter. Get going.

Dear Ann Landers: I'll be 19 in June and plan to be married in August. I should go to a doctor for a complete physical examination and some advice on birth control. But I just can't bring myself to take off my clothes in front of a strange man. Am I nuts or what?

I've made and cancelled two appointments. I became so nervous and sick I just couldn't go through with it. Is there something wrong with my mind? I've never needed to go to a doctor and the appointments were made by a friend who is disgusted with me. Please help.--- Deltaville, Va.

Dear Del: There are many women doctors these days and I hope you will call your county medical society and ask them to recommend one.

I wouldn't say you are nuts but I WOULD say you have a hang- up that needs exploration.

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in that letter signed Snubbed In California. (The woman and her husband were not invited to her neighbor's lovely party because they had neglected to drop a note saying they enjoyed the two previous parties.)

This might be hard to believe but some folks don't write thank- you notes because they don't know what to say. If they only knew that a couple of simple sentences would serve the purpose very nicely. Example: "Your party was delightful and we enjoyed meeting your friends. Thank you for including us."

Often that which is interpreted as indifference or snobishness is actually insecurity--- Ancient Lady

Dear Lady: You speak the truth. I've seen evidence of this time and time again. The same holds true for many people who are shamefully remiss about answering letters. They are uncomfortable about their penmanship or spelling or grammar, so they procrastinate and then they are too ashamed to write at all.

When the Big Ten basketball season reached the half-way mark, 17 freshmen had seen varsity action in conference games. Three of the men were fulltime starters.

Kindergarten to register Wednesday

NEW MADRID — Kindergarten registration for the 1973-74 school year will be held Wednesday at Main Street Elementary School during school hours.

To be eligible, a child must be 5 years old by Sept. 30. A birth certificate and record of immunization are requested at the time of registration.

Children will be assigned to morning or afternoon sessions on the basis of whether they ride a bus, if the mother works out of the home and in the order of registration.

All children are required to register, including those who have attended Head Start.

Girl Scouts discuss summer camps

Day camp, Camp Latonka and the Bootheel Youth Fair were among the things discussed by Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scout leaders April 4 and Brownie leaders April 5.

Mrs. James Handy Moore led the meeting for leaders of older scouts at the home of Mrs. Jim Green, and Mrs. Tom Gilmore led the meeting of Brownie leaders at the home of Mrs. Charles Springs.

Mrs. Bill Lewis, day camp director, reported that day camp is scheduled June 4-8 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Bill Lewis farm near Avert. Beechgrove day camp is available to all Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts in the Matthews, Morehouse, Vanduser and Sikeston Neighborhoods.

Mrs. Lewis distributed folders giving detailed information to leaders for girls to use in registering and preparing for day camp. Registration deadline is May 1. Volunteers are needed, and any older scout or scouting adult who wishes to help should phone Mrs. Lewis at 471-9525, or Mrs. John Cowell at 471-2648.

Mrs. Pat Lea, responsible for camp promotion for Beechgrove day camp and Latonka, repotted that a group of Cadette scouts had contacted all Sikeston troops to present up- to- date information about both day camping and established camping. Mrs. Lea urged all leaders to encourage girls to register early for camps they wish to attend.

The 1973 Youth Fair Exhibit is scheduled July 30-Aug. 4 in Sikeston. Elaine Malcolm explained to Brownie leaders rules and regulations concerning the Youth Fair and stressed that children from all youth groups could participate, especially in the hobby or art divisions. Other divisions include foods, arts, crafts and science; shop and industrial arts; clothing; field crops and vegetables; demonstrations; horse rodeo; tractor rodeo and livestock show.

Mrs. Jerry Dyer will take pictures, and any troop that wishes to have pictures taken should phone her at 471-4323.

Ilena Aslin, director of Cotton Boll Council, announced that camping with core staff (director, cook and waterfront director) will be available to Junior, Cadette and Senior troops from Aug. 31 through Sept. 3 and again Sept. 7-9. Leaders will receive registration forms for this special camping by June 30 and are encouraged to contact girls for early registration.

Adult leaders are needed in the Girl Scout program, and anyone willing to help this fall should contact Mrs. Moore at 471-5525 or Mrs. Gilmore at 471-9108.

First Class Court of Awards will be held May 6 at 3 p.m. in the Dexter High School auditorium.

Littell moves up

Mark Littell, who just two years ago was firing fast balls for Gideon high school in state tournament action at Sikeston's VFW stadium against the SHS Bulldogs, moved closer to his life long dream of becoming a major league baseball player today as the Kansas City Royals of the American league announced the advancement of the hard throwing righthander from their class A Waterloo, Ia., farm club to the class AAA Omaha team. Last season Littell recorded a 10-9 record, but gunned down 199 Midwest League batters in only 153 innings to lead the league and worked four innings against the Atlanta Braves in an exhibition game that drew statewide recognition. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Littell of rural Gideon.

HR's fly

BOSTON (AP) — "It looked like a laugher, but it wasn't," Detroit Manager Billy Martin said of the game against Boston. And the Red Sox' Carl Yastrzemski thinks the rest of the season will be just as frantic—and end up just as tight.

"It'll be a tough race," Yaz said following the Tiger's 9-7 victory Monday over the Sox at cozy Fenway Park, the only American League game of the day. "They'll be there at the end."

In the two National League games, the Cincinnati Reds edged San Diego 7-6 and the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped Houston 2-1 in 13 innings.

"We'll be all right," said Detroit left fielder Willie Horton, who hit his first home run of the season in the fourth inning to drive in three runs. "It's a matter of getting things started. We've got to work together." Tony Taylor also homered for Detroit.

Boston Manager Eddie Kasko, ejected from the game in the third inning when he protested a called third strike, said: "We're not that bad. We just can't spot a guy like Mickey Lolich four runs."

The Tigers' left-handed starter, 1-2, was relieved after six innings, leading 8-3. "I lifted him because he had a lot of right-handed hitters coming up," Martin said. "I've also seen him faster and sharper."

The Red Sox kept pecking away at Detroit's lead, with Reggie Smith driving in a pair of runs in the sixth with the first his two homers. Dwight Evans knocking in one with a sacrifice fly in the seventh and Smith hammering a solo shot in the eighth. Carlton Fisk then slammed a two-run homer in the ninth.

Tony Perez, Dave Concepcion and Johnny Bench smacked home runs to lead the Reds over the Padres, while Lee Lacy's two-out tie-breaking single gave the Dodgers their fourth straight victory.

Bench's homer, his third of the year, gave Cincinnati its winning margin, producing a 7-4 lead which the Padres trimmed to one run on Nate Colbert's two-out shot in the ninth off reliever Clay Carroll.

In the third inning, Perez hit his third homer, then Cesar Geronimo walked, Phil Gagliano singled and Concepcion unloaded a three-run shot off Clay Kirby.

Ron Cey began the Dodgers' rally against Jim York, Houston's fifth pitcher, with a single. Bill Russell forced Cey, then stole second and Tom Paciorek was given an intentional walk before Lacy lined his single to center.

Baker honored

Mark Baker, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Baker of New Madrid, was honored at the Three Rivers Community College booster banquet in Poplar Bluff last week. The former NMHS all- state basketball star was recipient of the first annual Poplar Bluff Elks Lodge 110% award and received two other honors as followers of the Raiders, who finished fifth in the nation this season, honored the team and its coaches.

Jackson hurls perfect game

BENTON — What do you do for an encore? Jeff "Jethro" Jackson will be unable to better his performance the next time the big junior righthander takes the mound for the Kelly Hawks because Monday afternoon he pitched a prefect no-run, no-hit game against Oak Ridge, shutting out the Jays, 4-0.

Last Friday afternoon Jackson pitched a one hitter against Oran Eagles in tuning up for the big event to come Monday.

Jackson was big with the bat also as he slutted out three hits, including a double, in three times at bat and knocked in three of the Hawks four runs.

Kelly seems to have the pitching it takes to take them to the state baseball tournament for the second consecutive year as the perfect performance today marked the second no-hitter turned in by the Hawks staff thus far. Kenny Urhahn hurled a no-hitter earlier in the season and now Jackson has allowed only one hit in his last 14 innings. Jackson fanned 166 batters enroute to his perfect game.

Bob Jackson was the only other Hawk to get more than one hit in the game, going two for three.

Kelly scored the only run they needed to notch their fifth victory against two losses, in the bottom of the first but added insurance runs in the third and crossing the plate twice in the sixth. The Jays saw nothing but smoke for seven innings.

Kelly resumes action Thursday afternoon against the Scott Central Braves in a Scott- Missisippi conference game. The Hawks play Sikeston Friday afternoon.

CHS remains undefeated

CHARLESTON — After being called at 4½ innings because of rain, the Charleston Blue Jays picked up their third straight win to keep their record clear. Oran fell victim to the Jays Monday afternoon 4-0.

The wet conditions kept both teams from moving and it was not until the bottom of the second that Charleston was able to bring their first run across the plate. The Eagles could not get their bats swinging against the Jays pitcher, Dan Bailey. Charleston picked up their final three runs during the bottom of the third inning to give them the winning decision.

Medlock had two hits for two RBI's while Halter contributed one hit for another 2 RBI's to lead the Jays in that department.

Curtis suffered the loss for the Oran Eagles.

Wednesday the Jays will travel to Scott Central in an effort to remain undefeated.

Colonels pacers win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In the American Basketball Association, it's disregard-theregular-season time.

The Carolina Cougars and Utah Stars, who finished the 82game season in first place in the Eastern and Western division races, respectively, are finding they can't rest on those laurels. Those statistics don't count—at least not to the Kentucky Colonels and Indiana Pacers.

For in the playoffs, basketball's second season, it's what have you done lately. And lately the Colonels and Pacers have been doing it to the Cougars and Stars.

Monday night, Kentucky defeated Carolina 118-108 and Indiana topped Utah 108-94. Both winners gained 2-1 advantages in their best-of-seven semifinals.

No games were scheduled Monday in the National Basketball Association. Tonight the Los Angeles Lakers, who were extended to seven tough games before eliminating Chicago, host the Golden State Warriors, 4-2 winners over Milwaukee, in the opener of the Western Conference finals. The Eastern finals, with Boston leading the Knicks 1-0, resume in New York on Wednesday night.

The Colonels had erased the Cougar's home-court advantage by gaining a split of the two games in Carolina. "We played the whole season for the homecourt advantage and we've won that from them already," said Kentucky's Walt Simon before the Colonels went out to protect their newly-won edge.

They did just that by getting 32 points from Dan Issel. Artis Gilmore added 19 along with his game-high 15 rebounds."Our offense was geared to the two big men (Issel and Gilmore) and we got more production from them tonight," said Kentucky Coach Joe Mullaney.

The Cougars, down by 12 at the half, could never get much closer after the intermission. Tom Owens led Carolina's attack with 17 points.

At Indianapolis, George McGinnis scored 31 points and Donnie Freeman added 29 as the Pacers gained their second straight victory over Utah and their 18th in a row at home.

The Pacers had left the court at halftime trailing 50-47 and were down 67-59 with 5:59 left in the third quarter. Indiana then reeled off nine straight points and never trailed again.

Feds baseball big in Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Convict baseball has its unique brand of humor but spring drills at the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary are little different from preseason training anywhere—except for the 42-foot outfield wall that doubles as a barrier to freedom.

They call themselves the Feds and the name is embroidered across the fronts of their red-and-white striped uniforms.

The 16 inmates who make up the roster are the elite of penitentiary baseball.

The Feds, who won their 1973 opener 17-5 against the semipro Columbia, S.C., team two weeks ago, have a 50-game weekend schedule which includes most of the state's college teams and several semipro ball clubs.

"We have the best on-the road record of anyone," quipped one Fed. "They won't let us out of here to play nowhere else."

The Feds are part of a wideranging prison recreation program instituted by Warden J.D. Henderson and recreation supervisor John Clark.

On the well-kept field, leather gloves popped with incessant regularity and the crack of fungo bats echoed off the huge green wall that bears traces of inmate art. An octagonal guard tower looms overhead in centerfield.

The team runs through batting and infield practice daily at the field in the rear of the southeast Atlanta prison facility. Each night it attracts hundreds of spectators who watch the practices almost as rabidly as they await the Saturday and Sunday doubleheaders.

When the "fans" gather, the chatter starts.

"Hey, you look like sandlot out there," one of them heckled.

"That's all right. I ain't worried," the pitcher shouted back. "I still got five years left on my 'contract.'"

"We're an international team," a second baseman said. "And we've got the best recruiting service in the world— the FBI. Only they've been sending us addicts and ain't been arresting no pitchers."

The Feds field their own umpires—graduates of a National Baseball Congress-approved school at the institution.

Despite the enjoyment of the sport, their laughs in the dugout and the self-deprecatory chides, they haven't forgotten where they are or what lies ahead. Baseball is just a way to make it all seem bearable.

Tonight's schedule features a rematch between the tag teams of Ronnie Rickets and the Big Ox against Buddly Chander and Tuffy Taylor. The second event has Jake Dalton battling Bo Taylor.

'One-two, USA'

BOSTON (AP) — First an Olympic marathon victory, and now the Boston Marathon. America's prestige in long distance running is on the upswing.

Jon Anderson, a 23-year-old Cornell University graduate from Eugene, Ore., shocked favored foreign runners with a smashing victory in the 77th Boston Marathon on Monday, whipping a record field of 1,384 starters.

Following Frank Shorter's marathon triumph in the Olympic Games at Munich last summer, Anderson's success was a big boost to United States running. Americans long have dominated the world at shorter races and now appear coming into their own at distance running.

Tom Fleming, a 21-year-old college student from Wayne, N.J., expressed the feelings of most Americans after he finished second behind Anderson in the 26-mile, 385-yard run from Hopkinton to Boston.

"One-two, USA," Fleming said as he congratulated Anderson in the dressing room before it became crowded with sunbaked finishers. "This is just great."

Despite balmy weather and a blistering sun, Anderson covered the course in 2 hours, 16 minutes, 3 seconds, a noteworthy time although nearly five minutes off the record set by England's Ron Hill three years ago. Fleming was second in 2:17.46, with Finland's Olavi Suomalainen third in 2:18.21.

BOSTON (AP) — The 39th running of the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap on June 17 highlights the summer meet this year at Suffolk Downs which gets under way April 16.

Joseph E. Cresci, president of Suffolk Downs, said Wednesday the meet will offer 13 stakes and handicap events valued at $225,000.

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — The head basketball coach at Utica College for four seasons has been fired following a dispute with the school administration concerning priorities of the athletic and physical education programs, it was announced Wednesday.

Tom Huggins, Utica's athletic director, will succeed Joe Rosado as head mentor. A college spokesman said the school did not intend to de-emphasize its varsity basketball program.

Power plant construction payments approved were $498,455.31.

The board also requested that the firm of Ernst and Ernst of New York certified public accountants be contacted for an estimate of the cost of conducting the annual audit of the generating plant.

BENTON — The County Court said Monday they would pay the mileage for an agronomist to come to Scott County to meet with farmers for at least two days a week.

If a farmer needs the assistance of an agronomist all he has to do is contact the court and one will be sent to help.

This, the court said, is in addition to the $15,000 appropriated to the University of Missouri Extension Council for money for an agronomist.

Also, mileage will be paid for a youth agent to come to Scott County to meet with farmers.

No farmer should feel he has to do without the aid of an agronomist, the court said.

Park producers call for better research unit

BENTON— Area pork producers Monday night heard Bill Turner, a West Plains pork producer, speak about a proposal to obtain swine research facilities in Scott County at a meeting sponsored by the Missouri Pork Producers Association and University of Missouri College of Agriculture.

Pork producers from Scott, Stoddard, New Madrid, Mississippi, Pemiscot and Dunklin counties attended the meeting to voice their opinions and ideas on the projected program.

Turner said he had worked with livestock for the past eight and one- half years and is aware of some of the problems in connection with obtaining a swine research program.

Turner said Texas is one of the newer states to engage in the hog business and already has a lot more research facilities than Missouri.

Ronnie Burger, president of Scott County Pork Producers Association, said the proposal calls for a moderately priced set of facilities, equipped and furnished for research of nutrition, reproduction, diseases, farrowing and management.

One proposal would ask the state legislature to give priority to a one- time appropriation covering two- thirds of the estimated costs- $2,000- and call for swine- related industries to equip and furnish the facilities at a cost of $50,000 and for Missouri hog farmers to raise a volunteer quota of $53,900.

Each producer agreed during the meeting to contribute one cent per hog, and swine- related industries of the county agreed to give one-half cent per hog.

Broken down into counties the agreements would raise:

Scott County, the projected quota at one cent per head from producers, $321.60, and projected quota at one- half cent per head from related industry, $160.80, for a total quota of $482.40.

Stoddard County, producers, $462.40; related industry, $231.20; total quota, $693.60.

Dunklin County, producers, $221.60; related industry, $110.80; total quota, $332.40.

Mississippi County, producers, $158.40; related industry, $79.20; total quota, $237.60.

New Madrid County, producers, $132.80; related industry, $66.40; total quota, $192.20.

Pemiscot County, producers, $22.40; related industry, $11.20; total quota, $33.60;

According to Burger, the total for the six- county area would add up to $1,971.80 to be presented to the legislature.

Chairmen were selected in four of the counties to head a committee to help reach the projected goals. The chairmen include: Peter Myers , New Madrid County; Vince Hulshoff and Paul Hulshoff; Mississippi County John Odom, John Harper and Dr. D.F. Morris; Scott County, and Bob Mayer and Dr. L.E. Parmer, Stoddard County.

The committee members will talk to people in their counties engaged in the pork producing industry.

Missouri bases not affected

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., said today in Washington no military bases in Missouri will be affected by the consolidation and reduction program of the Department of Defense brought about by the end of the war.

"The reorganization program necessitated by the end of the Vietnam war and the move to a smaller and voluntary military force has resulted in the announcement today by the U.S. Army that it plans to close four bases and cut back 31 others which result in a savings of $57.8 million," Ichord said.

"The total (plan of) the Department of Defense is either to close or cutback some 274 installations at a savings of $375 million. However no military bases in Missouri were affected by the cutbacks," Ichord said.

A spokesman for Ichord said no one knows how future Defense Department cuts will affect Missouri bases.

There had been some concern among Missouri's congressional delegation that Ft. Leonard Wood near Waynesville would be closed.

Highlights and Sidelights

From our State Capital

JEFFERSON CITY — When the General Assembly is wrestling with massive problems like state reorganization, restoration of the death penalty, abortion, and a nearly $2 billion budget, it is easy to lose track of less exciting, but significant, pieces of legislation like state- wide voter registration.

However, when anyone is on the verge of forgetting voter registration, Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick is around with the reminder that Missouri is one of only six states in the Union without a state- wide, uniform system for the registration of voters.

Kirkpatrick made voter registration one of this campaign promises, and has been working hard making speeches around the state in support of legislation before the General Assembly.

A voter registration bill already has won the approval of the House, and the Senate is expected to take action on the measure before the end of the session.

The bill would make it mandatory for the first time for persons to register before they are eligible to vote. Voter registration is mandatory right now in cities with a apopulation of 10,000 or more, and in Clay, Jackson and St. Louis counties. Additionally, many counties have adopted voter registration on a local option basis, including tiny Worth County with only 2,324 registered voters. However, there are still 66 Missouri counties with no voter registration, and it is to them that this bill would apply.

Voter registration was not much of a probm in the past, especially in rural counties. Election judges generally knew most of the voters in their precincts because the population was fairly stable. But legal and sociological factors have changed that situation. The Supreme Court reduced the residency requirement from one year to 30 days, which in turn reduced the likelihood that precinct judges would know everyone eligible to vote. Add to that the reality of a more mobile population with people coming and going and not staying in one place for long, and precinct judges have real problems.

"The day is past," Kirkpatrick said, "when we can expect election judges and clerks to know every voter personally."

State- wide registration would help election officials in other ways, Kirkpatrick noted, by enabling them to better predict the amount of election supplies they will need, reducing waste and cutting down on election day expenses.

Kirkpatrick's administrative assistant, John Ashford, cited several other reasons for uniform registration laws.

One was that it would help protect the integrity of elections. A voter would have a registration slip which would be stamped at election time making it considerably more difficult for him to vote more than once.

It also would be helpful to candidates by providing them with a list of the registered voters.

Uniform treatment of voters would result from adoption of such a system, according to Ashford. If a voter had his registration slip, he would not have to depend on the whim of an election judge or election clerk to exercise his franchise.

The thought then comes to mind that if state- wide registration would be a boon to voters, officials, candidates and the Secretary of State, why has it taken Missouri so long to get around to enacting it?

The answer in this case, as in so many others, is money. Small counties contend they cannot afford to pay the costs of registration. Kirkpatrick's office estimates that it would cost counties an average of 90 cents per voter to register voters the first year, and 41 cents per voter for each year thereafter. The average number of voters in the 66 Missouri counties without registration is 5,400, which boils down to $5,000 per county.

This sum was enough to block passage of state- wide registration for many years as rural legislators dominated the General Assembly. But since redistricting, the edge has been slipping.

Guilty pleas rejected; pair must stand trial

KENNETT — Circuit Court Judge Flake McHaney has ordered two Malden teen- agers to stand trial by jury on drug charges after refusing to accept their pleas of guilty which had been entered earlier.

Judge McHaney, who earlier had ordered pre- sentance investigations and reports on the pair after they pleaded builty last month, told Ronnie D. Cohen and Richard M. Benjamin that the probation reports indicted they were "uncooperative in revealing the source of their supply, and that the two didn't indicate any sincere regret regarding the crime."

In light of their refusal to cooperate and reveal their source, Judge McHaney ordered the guilty pleas set aside and entered not guilty pleas for the two, hinting that a jury might not be so lenient if they were convicted of the charge.

Judge McHaney cited a recent jury trial in Stoddard County where a defendant received a total of 17 years in prison for possessing marijuana.

Prosecuting Attorney Charles Baker has charged Cohen and Benjamin with selling a controlled substance, marijuana, to an undercover highway patrolman in Malden prior to a recent raid. Last month, Cohen and Benjamin withdrew not guilty pleas entered earlier and admitted to the charge, stating they had sold the marijuana for $50 after the agent had come to their residence asking where it could be bought.

At that time, Judge McHaney warned the defendants that the minimum sentence was five years in prison and the maximum was life imprisonment or death.

In his action Wednesday, Judge McHaney, referring to a probation which the two were supposedly to get, said probation was to be earned, not given, to be deserved and not treated lightly.

House ok's continued price control authority for Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has won House approval of legislation continuing his price-control authority, and administration sources say he may use it to impose a new freeze.

That report came Monday, after the House passed, 293 to 114, a bill giving Nixon essentially what he asked: extension of his economic control powers for a year with minimum restrictions on his discretion.

The administration sources said Nixon has been presented recommendations ranging from a freeze, to tightening of the present largely voluntary controls, to a free market system without controls. The President's decision should come "very quickly," the sources added.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz has come around to the view that controls in the present economic climate must be tightened, the sources said. Shultz is known to oppose economic controls and wants to see them phased out.

The administration moved to the largely voluntary Phase 3 control system on Jan. 11. Many economists outside the administration said this gave a big psychological boost for price increases. Organized labor has said Nixon should tighten controls now, adding that labor unions will be forced to seek large wage settlements unless strong action is taken on the price front.

Nixon's authority over economic controls is due to expire April 30.

The final measure extending his authority will be shaped in conference with the Senate. But that body also rejected congressional price ceilings when it approved the one-year extension, so the conference cannot write them in.

Senate insists on oath testimony in Watergate hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Still deadlocked with the White House, the Senate committee investigating the Watergate case insists that presidential aides testify under oath at public hearings beginning next month.

The committee agreed without dissent Monday to support Chairman Sam J. Ervin's demand that White House aides testify under the same conditions as all other witnesses.

Public hearings are scheduled to begin May 15.

The committee already has subpoenaed President Nixon's personal attorney, Herbert W. Kalmbach of Los Angeles, reported The Washington Post in today's editions.

The Post quoted reliable sources as saying the committee instructed Kalmbach to bring with him all relevant campaign finance records.

Kalmbach, who holds no official government position, has handled legal matters for the President and worked in the Nixon re-election campaign.

The Post said Kalmbach is the closest Nixon associate subpoenaed so far by the committee investigating the Watergate bugging and break-in and related allegations of Republican espionage and sabotage during the presidential campaign.

In another development, Martha Mitchell said she wants to testify before the Ervin committee to "tell the senators some things they never heard in their life."

In a telephone call to The Associated Press, Mrs. Mitchell asserted that the White House told "a God-blessed lie" when it denied that Nixon met Saturday with her husband, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

Told of Mrs. Mitchell's assertion, Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren again said that Nixon and Mitchell did not meet.

Mitchell, the first chairman of Nixon's re-election committee, said Saturday that he "can't wait" to face the Ervin investigators.

Ervin, D-N.C., has threatened to seek the arrest of any White House aide who refuses a subpoena to testify under oath.

Weekend rains halt river drop

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Heavy weekend rainfall over most of Missouri abruptly halted the receding waters of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers, causing both to begin rising again Monday, but flood control officials predicted the new crests would cause no flood problems.

"There shouldn't be a great change," a spokesman for the Army Corps of Engineers said. "It's a matter of waiting and watching to see if more rains come on top of it."

The National Weather Service said the Missouri, swollen by more than an inch of rain at St. Joseph and Kansas City, will crest this week well above flood stage at most stations across the state.

The Missouri, as much as 12 feet above flood stage at the beginning of the month, rose Monday 3.5 feet at St. Joseph to 15.4 feet and more than a food at Jefferson City. The river remained at flood level at Hermann but rose nearly one-half foot at St. Charles toward a new crest of 31 feet Saturday.

An overflow of as much as eight feet is expected in the lower reaches of the Missouri by the weekend, the weather service said.

On the Mississippi, which was still above flood stage at most points from Quincy, Ill., south, a new crest of 35 feet was forecast for St. Louis by Saturday, five feet above flood stage.

Judge orders board of visitors for jails

CARUTHERSVILLE — Pemiscot County Circuit Court Judge William Ragland has ordered the establishment of a board of visitors for the inspection of all the jails in Pemiscot County. The action was taken in compliance with Section 221.320 of the Missouri Statutes and was done after the required number of petitioner was obtained.

The effort to establish a board of visitors to inspect the local jails began in December of last year. Ragland said Father Wally Ellinger of Cape Girardeau, Secretariate for Social Concerns, of the Springfield- Cape Girardeau Diocese, Roman Catholic Church, began the process of circulating the petitions.

"I believe Pemiscot and New Madrid counties are the last two counties in Missouri not to have a committee appointed to inspect the jails," the judge said.

Pemiscot County Sherif Thad Shelly said in January that he was informed that a jail committee would soon be initiated. He said plumbing work was being done at the local jail and that some other areas of the jail were being cleaned up.

"The trusties haven't been doing a very good job in keeping the jail clean," the sheriff said then.

Although the judge said in December that he expected the petition to be filed "within a short time, possibly this month", it was the second week of April before the jail committee was named.

Six persons have been designated to serve on the Circuit Court Board of Visitors. Democrats are Robert Whitener of Hayti, Mrs. Norma Sellers of Caruthersville and Mrs. Helen Boswell of Steele. Republicans are Robert Richardson of Bragg City, Mrs. Louise Mathis of Braggadocio, and Willie Wright of Caruthersville.

Robert Whitener was named temporary chairman by the court for the purpose of the organizational meeting of the board.

Whitener and Richardson were appointed to serve three-year terms, Mrs. Sellers and Mrs. Mathis were appointed to serve two- year terms and Willie Wright and Mrs. Helen Boswell were appointed to serve one- year terms.

According to statutes pertaining to the formation of a board of visitors, the board will serve without compensation and must meet within a week after receiving notice of appointment. The secretary elected at the organizational meeting must file a report of that meeting with the clerk of the Circuit Court.

Included in the duties of the board, according to the statutes: "... examine every department of each institution, and shall ascertain its condition as to effective and economical administration, the cleanliness, discipline and comfort of its inmates and other respects, and at least once in every three months all of said institutions shall be visited by said board or a committee of its members."

In case the board finds anything "injurious" to the county or to the inmates of the jails, "it shall be their duty to address a memorial to the County Court, or other officials having jurisdiction."

The board must prepare a full report of their proceedings during the year with such recommendations as they deem advisable. This same report must be filed with the director of welfare of the department of public health and welfare on or before the first day of November of each year.

Seventeen either have come into compliance or under court jurisdiction, he said, and the other 25 were sent letters March 24 asking for new plans.

Lawton, Okla., and Anne Arundel County, Md., submitted acceptable plans, seven others have sent in proposals, one is in the process of preparing a plan, three have expressed desire to comply voluntarily and another appears to be in compliance, he said.

"The remaining 11 districts have declined to submit revised desegregation plans ...," he said.

Enforcement action against the 85 other districts would be premature without more study, Holmes added.

Thirty-nine of the districts never were formally determined to be in violation he said, and at least 20 others appear in compliance now.

Weather fouls work

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — More foul weather, including a near blizzard in northern Missouri, permitted an average of less than one day of field work last week, according to the Missouri Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Plowing was ony 11 per cent completed — compared with 74 per cent a year ago.

After the snow melted and the rain reappeared, the foul weather returned over the weekend, with rain reported over much of the state.

The wet weather has left wheat in only fair condition throughout the state.

Only four per cent of the oat crop has been planted, compared to 87 per cent a year ago. In the northern third of the state, it was less than one per cent. For central and westcentral Missouri it is only two per cent.

made.

An ordinanace was passed following a request by Police Judge Tom Nunn to make it illegal not to stop when a police officer turns on his red light and to refuse to show driver's license to a police officer on request.

City Attorney Paul McGhee reported on April 3 city election results and an ordinance was passed affirming election results.

Mayor Willis Conner appointed himself, McGhee and aldermen Leman Godwin, Richard Miller and James T. Williams to the budget committee.

McGhee reported on a meeting he and the mayor attended at the Public Service Commission in Jefferson City on April 12 concerning the installation of flashing lights and audible signals at the railroad crossing on Locust Street.

Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. will pay all costs except the city's share, which will be paid from a special tax fund administered by the state by the Public Service Commission. There will be no cost to the city for the signal and warning devices which will cost $17,100. The city will pay for the cost of installing stop signs at the crossing on One Mile Road.

Ben Cowan Jr. was appointed to the zoning commission on a recommendation from commission chairman Barney Miller.

The council discussed the obstruction of street crossings by Missouri Pacific trains which remain on the crossings for longer than the 15 minutes allotted. It was decided that misdemeanor charges could be filed by the city against the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. should this happen again.

Conner informed the council that city policemen Kenny Whettington and David Townsend would attend a breathalyzer school at the Missouri State Highway Patrol Academy in Jefferson City from Sept. 30 through Oct. 12. The mayor said the only cost to the city would be transportation to and from the school.

Conner presented a written complaint designed by Lowell Ragsdel of 137 Grissom St. against his neighbor, Logan Cook. The complaint requested the council to take action against Cook to force him to hook on to the city's sewer system. It was also pointed out that Cook had an outdoor privy which is a nuisance to Ragsdol.

According to a city ordinance, anyone living within the required hook-up distance of 150 feet from the sewer line must hook on. The matter was turned over to aldermen in ward three.

The council agreed to give Conner permission to purchase a double-barrel street sweeper from the Saso Co. of Grand Prairie, Tex. at a cost of $260.

McGhee agreed to look into the required curfew time for minors following a request by Police Chief Tom Nunn.

An ordinance was passed for the paving of streets in ward three of the city.

Desegregation ordered speeded up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under new court instructions, the Health, Education and Welfare Department must take steps today to speed desegregation in 17 Southern and border states.

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, following a hearing Monday, denied the Nixon administration's request for postponement of a lower court order requiring the desegregation step-up.

The lower court ruled Feb. 16 that today is the deadline for HEW to notify 116 school districts that they face the loss of federal funds because they have not met desegregation guidelines.

HEW also was ordered to tell another 85 districts by today that they must explain statistics indicating they still discriminate against black children.

Government lawyers who sought the delay argued that HEW had shown good faith in implementing court-ordered school desegregation plans. They said HEW was awaiting congressional clarification of the Supreme Court's busing order before enforcing it.

The NAACP Legal Defense Fund opposed any delay.

The appeals court did not rule on the merits of the lower court decision.

The appeals court pointed out that its order did not mean that federal funds will be cut off immediately—only that HEW must notify the schools that their desegregation efforts are being questioned.

Hearings must be held by HEW before it can cut off funds to a school district.

In his ruling, U.S. Dist. Court Judge John Pratt said 74 districts reneged on desegregation plans, and 42 were determined by HEW in 1971 as presumably violating the Supreme Court's Swann (busing) decision.

Peter E. Holmes of HEW's Office for Civil Rights submitted a deposition

Standing guard over their newly "captured" prize caboose are Tod McGhee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim McGhee; Stevie Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Ellis; and Rusy Limbaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lambaugh, all of Chaffee. The caboose was recently donated to the city of Chaffee by Frisco Railroad Co. The National Guard loaded the caboose onto a truck and moved it to the city park where the three boys found it a great playground to act out their take-over or to just watch the landscape go by. The Chaffee Jaycees sponsored the placing of the car in the park.

Dexter bank low bidder

DEXTER — Citizens Bank of Dexter was low bidder Monday night on the $100,000 general obligation bonds for the Arvin Industries site with a bid of $47,861.66 and received all bonds at a 4.7 per cent interest rate.

A total of five bids were opened at the City Council meeting. Other bidders included four Kansas City firms, E. F. Hutton and Co., Inc., Commerce Bank, Z. Zahner and Co. and Perry, Adams and Lewis Inc.

The general obligation bonds are for purchase of the site and site improvements for the Arvin Plant west of Dexter.

The council agreed to pay Norman Lewis of Kansas City, a representative of Perry, Adams and Lewis Inc., $2,000 for his services in handling the general obligation bonds.

The council voted unanimously to sign a contract with Lemons Brother Gravel Co. for the use of a landfill site of 75 acres approximately two and one- half miles north of Dexter.

The three-man committee of Eldon Cooper, J. T. Williams and James Carney, who recommended the landfill site after several meetings with the company, discussed various points in the contract.

Included are a two- year contract beginning on July 1 this year and ending on July 30 of 1975 at a cost of $1.94 per resident in the city. A yearly cost of $11,686.56 for the city's population of 6,024 will be payable monthly to Lemons Gravel Co.

All citizens with city stickers will be allowed to dump trash at the site at no extra cost. Commercial haulers who bring refuse from two or more houses or businesses will be required to pay $3 per load in addition to the city's payment.

All bob trucks will be required to pay $7.50 per load; trailer trucks, $15 per load; cotton trailers, $15 per load; and packer trucks, $20 per load. The fees will be paid at the landfill site. The site will be open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 7 a.m. to 11 a.m. on Saturdays.

It was pointed out that the landfill site must be approved by the state, and if not approved, the city will not be held liable for the payment of the landfill usage. If the site should require the company to stop burning trees and tree limbs, an additional charge will be

Robbery suspect in Miss Co jail

CHARLESTON— Jerry Vann, 21, of Cairo, Ill., waived extradition and was returned to Mississippi County jail Monday where he is being held on charges of strong- arm robbery, according to Deputy Sheriff Robert Smith.

Smith said Terry Brock of Charleston was robbed of $16 dollars about 11:15 p.m. Sunday as he was leaving Lane Tavern in Wyatt.

Two black men reportedly jumped him and while one held him, the other took the money from his pocket.

Another Cairo man, Charlie Brown Jr., is being sought on the same charge by Illinois authorities, Smith said.

Vann will appear in Magistrate Court Thursday.

Recreation plan to be discussed

A summer recreation program proposed by the Exchange Club will be discussed at a Planning and Zoning Commission meeting tonight at 7:30 in the City Administrative Building.

The commission will also consider rezoning property in the Sunset subdivision from duplex to planned trailer court.

$321,077 available to county schools

WASHINGTON— Rep. Bill D. Burlison, Missouri 10th District Democrat, has announced the awarding of additional funds from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to schools in Scott County for use in programs for educationally deprived children.

According to the Cape Girardeau congressman, the funds are authorized under the provisions of Part A, Title I, of the Elementary and Secoondary Education Act of 1965 (Public Law 89-10, as amended) for fiscal year 1973. The total allocation available to the county is $321,077.74.

Burlison explained that the awards may be used to provide enriched instructional services, employment and in- service training of teachers, aides, staff, pre- school services, work- study programs, parental counseling and early age identification and diagnosis of handicapped children.

The representative noted that a total of 2,304 children in the county between ages of 5 and 17 are considered educationally deprived. Of these, 1,776 live in families having yearly incomes under $2,000. Another 448 live in families receiving over $2,000 in Aid for Dependent Children benefits, and 40 live in foster homes.

Burlison remarked that each county must submit an organized plan and budget for the use of these funds in order to receive their allotted sum.

Bootheel sightings continue

A convention of UFOs?

By PAT GROJEAN

The skies of Southeast Missouri apparently have been teeming with weird objects during the past few weeks. With so many sightings of Unidentified Flying Objects, it almost seems like an invasion or a convention, and looking for UFOs may well become the "in" way to spend and evening in the Bootheel.

UFOs have reportedly been sighted in recent weeks in the skies over Piedmont, Bernie, Charleston, Dexter and Ellsinore, according to people and newspapers in the areas.

At Bernie and Piedmont, there seems to be a family of UFOs, not just one. Just in the past week, Bernie and Charleston citizens have been sighting strange objects, which seem to appear only at night and which Piedmont residents have been sighting for several weeks.

One of the objects is reported to have landed at Ellsinore, which is about 20 air miles from Piedmont.

Sheriffs, deputies, photographers and other residents are among those who have reported seeing the eerie sights.

Around Piedmont, UFO experts have been called in to investigate. Most Piedmont residents reportedly still believe there are no UFOs.

About 15 days ago the objects, which attracted national attention a few weeks ago at Piedmont, were first sighted over Bernie. Stoddard County Sheriff Ralph Mouser, Deputy Helen Triplett, well-known Bernie photographer Norman Swafford and numerous other persons reported seeing a strange object in the air. On April 10 at least three UFOs were reportedly seen over Bernie.

The brightly colored "something" has been attracting attention not only among Bernie residents, but also some Dexter residents who have sighted it. The Dexter Statesman reported that on the night of April 10 a "large number of automobiles were parked along the main road leading to the west out of Bernie."

All people who saw it described the strange lights the same way. The UFOs have been high in the skies on clear nights, which seems to rule out ideas that it could be a reflection of ground lights off the clouds.

The lights seem to change color from white to red to blue and several hues in between. They move across the sky in irregular manner as if starting and stopping and changing speeds.

On April 6, a UFO was reportedly sighted in Charleston. Mrs. Dorothy Thompson of Charleston said she was getting ready to watch the 8 o'clock movie. Her television set went off, then came back on and she saw a bright flash in her kitchen.

She looked out the back door and an egg- shaped object was at treetop level. The top was red and the bottom solid white. The lights did not flash and it made no sound, Mrs. Thompson reported. The whole incident lasted about three minutes, she said.

In a letter to The Daily Standard, Mrs. Thompson said, "As God is my witness, it really happened to me. One may be skeptical about such things, but when one sees it with their own eyes, they know it is so! I am not one to 'tell tales out of school', so to speak. This really happened to me and it was really weird and unnerving."

The UFOs at Piedmont and Bernie were usually spotted between 10 and 11 p.m.

Since the sightings, rumors are running wild. There have been stories of UFOs landing in fields, swooping down over towns and others which are wilder. Most of these have been discounted as rumor, but they still spread.

The Dexter Statesman reports that no one has yet appeared to be frightened by the strange objects and most persons have seemed to accept it as something up there in the sky. Other people merely joke about the sightings.

But there seems to be something weird up there and on clear nights people are turning out to just sit in their cars and watch. Some keep their cameras ready to record any unusual sight.

EASTER
SUNDAY

Easter is almost upon us again. The date is April 22. In the Christian world, Easter Sunday commemorates the Ressurrection of Christ. Easter customs, as we practice them in the U. S. today, are a singular tribute to the spirit of Easter and to the quiet freshness of a Spring morning when one can almost feel, for a few hours, the prevading sense of tranquility and consideration of our fellowman that 2,000 years ago released humanity from the bondage of sheer barbarism.

Many capture the spirit of Easter by going to Church. The simple Easter egg hunt and the tradition of the Easter bonnet lend joy and color to the occasion. All of the ways in which Easter is observed hold a certain humility -- as they should. Easter is a day of civilizing influence. It is merely one day out of 365, but it is a day that expresses the way we should live throughout the year -- in humble respect for the unseen power that guides our lives.

YOU USED UP A TREE LAST YEAR

Here's a thought well in advance of Arbor Day:

In 1973, each man, woman and child in the United States will "consume" approximately one 16-inch-thick, 100- foot- high tree.

The estimate is figured on the basis of each tree yielding one ton of wood and wood products, and on the fact that our comsumption in 1972 was 203 million tons.

More than 30 per cent each ton will go into pulp and paper products. The rest will be used for home construction, furniture and thousands of other products that utilize wood.

According to the American Forest Institute, by the year 2000 each American will be using a tree and a half every year, or 50 per cent more — and there will be a lot more Americans.

Fortunately, wood is a renewable resource and one that can be expanded. For example, in the largest single such effort ever carried out by a private company, Weyerhaeuser Co. is planting more than 100 million seedlings in its western forest lands.

The aim, says president George H. Weyerhaeuser, is to help make sure America never runs out of wood, as well as to preserve the delicate forest environment by replacing what man takes for his use with growing young trees.

NEW YORK (AP) — His face is a bon mot...his mind is that of a gentler Voltaire...when he sits down at the piano, everybody laughs — then the air is stilled by his magic.

And on or off the stage, Victor Borge is still probably the most entertaining person in America to be with.

The "unmelancholy Dane" was already the Noel Coward of his native Denmark in 1941 when, a refugee from the Nazis, he arrived here virtually penniless and unable to speak English.

For months he lived on 25 cents a day while he haunted movie houses and learned the language listening to films.

Now 64, wealthy and world famous, tempered by time and mellowed by hardship, Borge is at the summit of his career. He gives 150 or more concerts a year.

In his own words, here is the philosopher at the piano, in an informal luncheon interview:

"It has been an enormous and invaluable experience to live through things that couldn't happen — but did.

"Life is a gift. To me every morning is a new life.

"It should be compulsory for everyone to confront some of the miseries of this world — to go through a children's hospital once a week, to open our windows and see what is really going on. We should see the corners of our society. This may not solve our problems, but we will be at least aware of them.

"I believe in defensive living. Expect the worst because that is expectable, but be deeply grateful when things go right. What confidence it takes to tell a friend we shall see him a week from Monday. How dare we?

"You ought to have to earn whatever you get. Money should not enable you to buy it.

"Laughter is as important as anything in life. With a lighter mind you don't weigh so much.

"I like yellow-colored things because they are sunny and smiling. I seldom use green inside the house, because there is so much of it outside in nature.

"I like home kitchen smells, but I like the odors of any thing that has done me good — even hospitals.

"I also like any agreeable woman...shopping in hardware stores...cheese...and the feel of soil or piano keys at my fingertips.

"I believe in the harmonization of things — that's what life is all about.

"I don't like being the victim of something mechanical inflicted on me and not of my own choosing — such as airplane music. But once I rode up and down in an elevator for 18 minutes listening to a Brahms concerto.

"I dislike people who have no sense of humor, because I do not know what to say to them. It is like playing tennis alone.

"Everything we do is done for a purpose. Nothing is automatic.

"I know so much perhaps I should run for president."

PART IS GOOD,

R

A law introduced at Jefferson City would absolve landowners from liability if anyone be injured while on their land without specific permission. We hope it passes. It never has been just that a landowner could be sued for some act over which he had no control, and while damages have seldom been collected, the owner nevertheless had the possibility of a lawsuit facing him if anyone was injured.

Another section of the law would require written permission from a landowner before anyone could enter upon his or her premises. That part isn't need. We already have a trespass law which seems to cover the situation.

STALINISM LIVES

Alexander Solzhenitsyn's ONE DAY IN THE LIFE OF IVAN DENISOVICH graphically describes subhuman conditions in Soviet slave labor camps under Stalin. Far- leftists claim that "de-Stalinization" has brought an end to such barbarities, but a news story in the LONDON TIMES shows that little has changed in Soviet Russia except the leaders' names.

The TIMES reported in late December that several political prisoners in the Mordivinian labor camp had appealed to the International Red cross, protesting a system aimed at "gradually transforming a person into an unthinking, intimidated and obedient animal.'

Two evils were singled out. One was deliberate starvation of those prisoners who would not allow themselves to become "intimidated and obedient." The authorities would withold half the legal minimum of food calories, with serious illness the result.

The signers of the appeal also protested the uncivilized state of medical care. Medical supplies were almost totally lacking, there were no first aid facilities and doctors would deliberately make the wrong diagnosis in order to deprive the uncooperative prisoner of proper care.

The signers of this appeal knew that they faced retaliation for their action, but courageously went ahead. One of the signers was Simas Kudirka, the Lithuanian seaman who tried to defect to our country in 1970, but was sent back to Soviet authorities by the U.S. Coast Guard. Clearly Kudirka has retained all of the bravery which prompted his attempted escape from slavery.

If President Nixon is eager to talk to Soviet slavermasters, he should bring up the subject of barbarous treatment pf political prisoners. H. L. Hunt

A RESPONSIVE
CHORD

A short time ago, the president of the American Medical Association, Dr. Walter C. Bornemeier, expressed his ideas in the magazine The Reader's Digest on how to relieve the nation's physician shortage. He suggests changes in the medical education system to reduce the length of time spent in premedical and medical studies without lessening the quality of medical education. He also suggests upgrading of training and responsibilities of health care personnel, such as nurses, thus relieving doctors of many routine duties.

Dr. Bornemeier's approach to this phase of the health care problem has struck a responsive chord in many people, judging from comments received by The Reader's Digest. From a Navy hospital corpsman, Dr. Bornemeier received the following observation: "I have just read your article ... I have a strong desire to continue using my ... training and experience and would appreciate any ... information you may be able to send me." A registered nurse in Washington, D. C., writes, "I am interested in the physician's assistant (training) program ... I am looking for something better in the field of medicine that does not include becoming an administrator. I would like to stay with the patient." A Michigan truck driver says, "For 12 years I worked as a surgical technician ... I ... read your comments about new programs for medical training ... please send me more information." An Indiana insurance agent and former military medic observes, "Your article ... must be the most practical, direct and readily attainable solution to our nation's health care problems ..."

The point of all this is that it shows how leaders of the medical profession are moving in response to explosive health care demands that have been a counterpart of federal programs such as medicare and medicaid. Their actions demonstrate the flexibility and resourcefulness of U. S. medicine under the most trying circumstances.

DAY CARE CENTERS
CAN BE PROFITABLE
MICHIGAN FIRM SAYS

President Patrick J. Callihan of Provincial House, Inc. of Lansing, Mich. says that his company is investing $1.1 million in centers for the day care of children.

Until now, Provincial House's health care business has been concentrated on operation of health care centers through its chain of modern nursing facilities. The expansion into child care gives the company a position as one of the largest operators of children's centers in the United States.

"With eight child care centers in operation," the subsidiary's president, Joyce Hatton, said, "and with each unit able to care for 200 children on a morning and afternoon shift basis we now have a daily capacity for the care and pre-school training of 1,600 children. Also, we are planning to build four new centers in Michigan with the modules purchased from Kiddie Care Corp., which will increase our capacity to 2,400 children."

Speaking for the parent company, Provincial House, Mrs. Callihan commented: "We have now entered a second big area of care, and we are engaged in exploratory talks looking to expand our administrative capacity to other health fields, where present facilities are inadequate and which we believe can be operated on a business like profitable basis."

TAXES! TAXES!
(Render Unto Caesar)

When I was but a little lad,
my mother said to me;
Put all your pennies in the bank, and keep your conscience free.
I've tried to follow her advice and save for rainy days,
But my umbrella sprang a leak with taxes I must raise.

When I'm awakened from my snooze, I pay a tax on the soap I use;
A tax paid brush will smooth my hair, there's an extra tax on the clothes I wear.
I pay a levy on the food I eat, with an added charge if I ask for meat.
The auto tax is the worst
I've seen, there's a seven cent tax on gasoline.

A tax on oil and a tax on the road, a driver's tax to increase the load,
An income tax in April I pay, with a County tax along in May.
Then the Township tax comes slipping by, and the School tax hits me in July.
Personal tax, and a poll tax too, both hop in 'fore the summer's through.

A movie show, now a cigarette, there's another tax
you can't forget.
They squeeze my purse with an extra clamp when they put a tax on the postage stamp.
An inheritance tax, my lawyer said, will have to be paid when I am dead.
I'm taxed to live and I'm taxed to die, you cannot beat the game however you try.

I wonder if the day will come when I, without a fee,
Can keep one dollar for myself and hold my conscience free.
When Gabriel calls me to my rest, I'll gladly face the facts,
And take that dollar to my grave to pay the heavenly tax.

CORPULENT AMERICANS RESULT OF
OVER-EATING AND AFFLUENCE

The U. S. Public Health Service estimates that from 10 to 12% of all families with annual incomes of over $12,000 were so much over-weight that their health was being jeopardized. The corpulent society as far as middle income families are concerned is on the increase. The Health Insurance Institute reports that middle income families have gotten more obese at a steady rate for the past 20 years. It takes no expert to connect these with early deaths from heart troubles and other diseases.

Experts blame high consumption of convenience and high calorie foods and between meal snacks.

What to do about it? Here's what they recommend:

1. Drink more milk and cut down on other fats.

2. Eat bread that is enriched with riboflavin and wheat germ.

3. At least twice a month eat broiled liver.

4. Avoid fried meats. Broil, boil or roast meat, fowl and fish.

5. Eat more raw fruits and steamcook more green and yellow vegetables.

6. Abandon freak diets and crunchy snacks and high calorie convenience foods.

YOUNG PEOPLE ARE THE HOPE OF THE U.S.

Republic USA is blessed with so many wonderful young people that it is almost a miracle. We all need to pause ever so often and give thanks for the vast majority of good young people who bless our land.

A good thing to do is to notice good works by good young people and call attention to them. Letters to the editor provide an effective means to help publicize the good works of young people and to counteract the excessive publicity given to the few destroyers who clutter up the national news networks.

Our good young people know that freedom is vital and that liberty is not filth and bad manners and dirty clothing and dirty words. Youth seeks knowledge and a cause, but most of all youth wants to know that we seasoned campaigners believe in liberty and God and country and are willing to stand up and work for what we believe in.

Youth is impatient, and we should be thankful for it. The problem is that young people have not been taught about Freedom and how Freedom has made it possible that they don't have to worry about epidemics or famine wiping out millions of lives in one season, as happens in lands whose founders did not pass on to youth a heritage of Freedom.

Youth wants to enjoy. Freedom can be much more fun, for young and old alike, than following along with the herd of destroyers who hate Freedom and humanity. Good young people are organizing and passing the word to their peers that outwitting the enemies of Freedom is much more fun than falling in with their plans and being used to destroy Freedom. Youth is the hope of the future and will be the salvation of Republic USA. HLH

Wants Our Troops: Fabled Singapore's Underpaid Workers, Futuristic Automation, Computers, Slashing U. S. Jobs

WASHINGTON — It was festive at the White House the other Tuesday night when the Nixons honored a very urbane Chinese --- Singapore's Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew. He drank. He toasted. He mixed. He laughed. He loved opera star Mary Costa, especially when she sang, "I Bought Me a Cat." And he said the nicest, most sophisticated things about President Nixon and America.

But it wasn't always so. Very important, this. Innocents aboard, often in packaged tours, anticipate the little city- state of Singapore as the home of Raffles, "Come Home, Bill Bailey" and the Singapore Sling. Truth is, Singapore has us in a sling.

And the suave 49- year - old Lee Kuan Yew, one of the world's most active nonaligned Socialist leaders, got us there and is helping to keep us there.

There was a time, not too long ago, I recall Mr. Lee was very loath to be seen in the presence of an Occidental. Especially a West European. Doubly especially an American. There's much on this in the Asian section of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Mr. Lee, British educated, has been a militant Socialist since his student days in Cambridge, England. He returned home (he's a third generation Singaporean) and got into politics and the labor movement -- the same there. He was a labor lawyer (legal adviser) to railroad, traction, and waterfront workers, teachers union and other "locals."

This became his base. Quite revolutionary. Quite harassing to our people there. He organized his Socialist People's Action Party. He won. Later, the British pulled out. They were the heaviest employers of labor.

So Socialist Lee Kuan Yew who detested capitalism in general, the U. S. in particular, and who was quite rough with private citizen Richard Nixon during the latter's 1967 visit, and who now believes it would be "catastrophic" if American troops left Southeast Asia, decided to save his people with the one formula he knew would work: capitalism.

Mr. Lee began turning his city - state into a vast industrial center. And did, and is doing, quite well. Enough to dump almost slave- labor wage products of all sorts into the U. S. at an astronomically increasing tempo. For example, in 1968 Singapore mills sold some 200,000 square yards of man-made fiber in the U. S. Four years later, 1972, this figure rose to 47 million. Yes, millions of square yards, some 97 per cent of which came in the form of apparel. The wage rate there is about 20 cents an hour.

Not too long ago a non-union Singapore plant was struck. The workers were earning 7 to 21 cents an hour. Their demand: an increase of 12 cents a month semiannually. Thus report recent visitors there (about eight weeks ago).

Across the world the People's Action Party sends word that it has a fine "industrial relations climate." It says its workers rarely strike. It has a pamphlet which talks of the benefits of production in Singapore.

It has a PQR drive -- propserity through quality campaign.

"We need to have the closest collaboration between labor, business, government and the consuming public," says Hon Sui Sen, Singapore's minister of finance. "I am glad to note the progress and rapid changes in the manufacturing sector over the past few years. There has been a broadening of the industrial base. The range of products being processed, assembled and manufactured locally has widened. Participation of foreign investment has contributed to greater entrepreneurship and high technology in the manufacturing sector. Our industries are becoming more and more sophisticated, and direct export of our manufactured products has increased some 20 times that of ten years ago."

There now are Japanese, German, French and some American establishments. Most are in partnership with Singaporeans.

This Socialist state does strange things with wages. Construction workers earn about $20 a week.

Members of the party at the White House that Tuesday, April 10, night did not note Prime Minister Lee telling this to our own Secretary of Labor Pete Brennan; Tom Murphy, president of the Bricklayers; and Joe Power, president of the Plasters and Cement Masons who were among the guests.

Machinists get some 40 cents an hour; spinners of textile cloth 20 cents hourly.

The highest paid Singaporean skilled worker, according to union chiefs who've just returned, is some $35 a week. Lowest paid in technical fields is $12.50 a week.

Singapore has become one of the world's best- promoted production centers -- new plants, new automation, new assembly lines. And labor peace, boasts Mr. Lee's Socialist People's Action Party which is so nonaligned and so anti-imperialist, and counts so much on our troops staying in Thailand.

But when the U. S. asked him a few weeks ago to agree, as have Japan, Taiwan, Hong Kong, S. Korea, Macao and Malaysia, to voluntary limit exports to the U. S., Mr. Lee's Socialist, low- wage government said, no, indeed.

Apparently his philsophical socialism doesn't get in the way of his eagerness for capitalist dollars. His little brave new world, his city-state, is prospering. Small wonder he had so fine a time at the party.

America's workers might take a good look at that Singapore sling -- "prosperty Through Quality and Reliability." And productivity, I might add.

Conspirators Demanded A White House Contact

WASHINGTON — In secret testimony before the grand jury, Watergate defendant James McCord has confided that his coconspirator, Howard Hunt, last July feared the President's campaign chiefs were abandoning them and wrote a three- page letter demanding "to contact someone in the White House."

Thereafter, money allegedly was delivered to Hunt's attorney, William O. Bittman, for distribution to the defandants. Mrs. Hunt, acting as the courier, arranged to meet McCord at various places and slip him cash payments. McCord testified that he received around $45,000 after the Watergate break-in for "salary" and legal expenses.

The grand jury is trying to track down who authorized the payments and whether the money was intended to buy the defendants' silence. Bribery to obstruct justice, of course, is a serious federal violation.

As McCord related it to the grand jury, he received a phone call around July 20 from Hunt. "He asked me," said McCord, "to go to a pay phone away from the house, where I could call him, which I did ...

'AFRAID WE MIGHT TALK'

"He felt the Committee to Re-elect the President (was) trying to do him in and to do us in for good and to put us away and abandon us. This was his, almost his exact words.

"And he said that he was going to do, well, he said words to the effect that he was going to now assume a leadership role in dealing with the committee. McCord said he, too, felt "they were more interested in keeping us in jail than they were in getting us out, because they were afraid we might talk."

McCord later learned from Mrs. Hunt that her husband had written a three-page letter which was read to the campaign committee's attorney, Kenneth W. Parkinson. Recounted McCord: "She said that when Bittman read the letter to Parkinson that Hunt wanted to contact someone in the White House, Parkinson said, 'Give us a week." And Hunt came back and said, 'No, you get two days.'

"So they said, 'Okay. Something will be worked out in a couple of days.' And that something, it appeared to me, had to do with a contact and it also had something to do with the funding for the defendants ..."

CODE NAME:
'CHRIS'

Not long afterward, Mrs. Hunt, using the code name "Chris," called to arrange the first transfer of funds. "I went over to her car and she gave me an envelope and she said, 'This is the payment for your salary for five months, beginning in July through whatever it is' -- I think it was November ...

"I asked her if she wanted a receipt and she said, no, it was not necessary, that she would be making an accounting to Mr. Bittman for it." McCord also talked to her about legal fees. "They wanted to know," she reported back to him later, "If you're going to keep quiet."

Still later, Hunt brought up the same question with him directly. Testified McCord: "(Hunt) said, 'we have legal fee money for you.' And I said, 'what goes along with it?' ... He put it this way, 'Everybody's naturally interested in knowing whether you're going to keep quiet.'"

McCord felt this was merely a maneuver to keep him quiet until the election, so he put off Hunt until Novemember 7. Then he decided "to go ahead and take the legal fee money." But he refused to be bound if the legal fees were offered "as a weapon to keep us from saying anything." Hunt urged him to go ahead and take (the money) and we'll see what happens."

The question came up again at a meeting with Mrs. Hunt on November 30. As McCord interpreted the conversation, "essentially there wasn't going to be any more money unless you fellows agree to plead guilty and take executive clemency at a later time and keep yourmouth shut."

'MORE THAN A YEAR'

He quoted her as saying, "they want to know if more than one year is okay with you ... staying in jail more than one year, and then executive clemency." McCord turned down the deal, saying he was going to plead not guilty and fight the case. "And she repeated this to me three more times," he recalled, "and it was in the contest of, 'well, I'm not sure they're going to give you any more money ...'

"The meaning was very clear, that 'Unless you agree to go along with this, you can forget about any further salary continuance.' And I said, 'whatever will be will be."

Footnote: After the break-in squad was arrested inside Democratic party headquarters, McCord testified, the higher-ups first wanted to blame it on the CIA. But neither Hunt nor McCord would go along with that cover story. Then there was talk about blaming the whole affair on Gordon Liddy, the Watergate ringleader. McCord quoted Mrs. Hunt as saying she had been told "that there were now plans to charge Liddy. Some type of plans were underway to charge Liddy stole the money and bribed Hunt and McCord to perform the operation. I said, 'well you can pass the word that I won't stand for that ... It's not true. It's not the way it happened.'" Parkinson has denied any role in getting money to the defendants. Bittman said, "We have consistently refused to comment on any allegations in the case. I see no reason at all to change that policy at this time."

Rep. Burlison urges disaster declaration

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Rep. Bill D. Burlison, 10th district Democrat, telegraphed President Nixon last week urging him to declare a major disaster in 86 Missouri counties, including 14 counties in the 10th Congressional District.

In expressing his concern, the Missouri Democrat said,

"The $33 million devastation wrought by the flooding of the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers has prompted Governor Bond to formally request you to declare 86 Missouri counties a major disaster area."

"Fourteen of those counties are in the 10th District. Damage in the District has been conservatively estimated in excess of $11 million, of which damage to agriculture alone is $8.5 million," he said.

It is important to realize that the Governor was required to prepare figures on which to base his request, but the flood waters prevented detailed on-site evaluation. It is probable, therefore, that the actual damage will significantly exceed the estimates prepared for him by representatives of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, the Corps of Engineers, the American Red Cross and various state officials, Burlison added.

"The inundated farmlands are vital to American's food production and their non-use will very likely increase the upward pressure on food prices in the near future," he added.

"For this important natural reason as well as humanitarian concern for the dislocation of so many innocent people, I am constrained to request that you take the most prompt action possible, consistent with your pervasive responsibility to give proper effect to the law of the land.

2 injured in Bootheel auto accidents

Two traffic accidents Monday in the Bootheel area resulted in injuries to two persons, according to the highway patrol.

Three vehicles collided at 7:20 a.m. two miles north of Steele at the Junction of Route H and Highway 61.

The accident occurred when a school bus, driven north by Berlon Woody, 47, of Steele, was stopping to make a left turn and was struck in the left rear by a tractor trailer driven by Willie Clark Bell, 38, of Jackson, Miss. The Bell truck then struck a car driven south by Shery Inez Schlegel, 21, of Steele almost head on.

Miss Schlegel received head and face cuts and was taken to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Hayti.

James Leroy Deprow Jr, 26, of Tallapoosa suffered head cuts at 5:40 p.m. when the car in which he was riding went out of control on a gravel road two miles west of Tallapoosa and struck a dirt embankment.

Steve Randy Reed, 21, of Tallapposa, driver of the car, was not injured.

Missouri month behind deadline on air standards

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas and Missouri will be about a month behind Sunday's deadline for submitting plans for meeting federal air quality standards.

The Environmental Protection Agency has ordered 18 states to produce such a plan to achieve 1975 standards.

The seven-county area of metropolitan Kansas City, on both sides of the state line, is the big problem for Kansas and Missouri. State officials have said they hope to complete their proposals by May 15.

The George A. Jutze consulting firm, hired by EPA, has said half of the vehicles in the area may need $25 to $30 in repairs to meet emission standards. Also, the firm said, half of the 750,000 vehicles would not pass the test the first time.

Three plans are being discussed: Mandatory engine tuneups, reducing the number of cars in daily traffic, and gasoline rationing.

Traffic might be reduced by eliminating public parking and placing a surtax on parking lots, along with improvement of mass transit, it was pointed out.

Officials of the two states said their final plan could concentrate on any of the three proposals or be a combination of all three.

Mansion tours are scheduled

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Mrs. Carolyn Bond announced today a program of regular tours of the governor's mansion, starting June 5.

The governor's wife conducted a brief tour of the mansion for the news media and said:

"This is our home and yet it belongs to the people of Missouri... Now, for the first time in the history of the mansion, it will be open for regular tours."

The one-hour tours will be at 10 and 11 a.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Tickets for as many as 150 persons in a group can be obtained through the office of Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

The Bonds moved into the mansion earlier this month although their second-floor living quarters are still being renovated. They are living in guest rooms on the third floor.

Asked how she liked it, Mrs. Bond joked:

"The trains make a lot of noise. They are right under our bedroom window."

The mansion is located on the Missouri River bluff a few blocks east of the capitol. A number of railroad tracks parallel the river at the base of the bluff.

The tours will be conducted only on the first floor of the mansion, which is of French Italian architecture. The first floor was renovated during the administration of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and his wife, Betty.

A group of 25 Jefferson City women volunteered to direct the tour program. Mrs. Bond said she will conduct some of the tours.

The first lady, dressed attractively in a white suit with a multi-colored scarf, told many stories on the origin of certain pieces of furniture in the 101-year-old mansion and related some events, such as when the outlaw Frank James supposedly surrendered to Gov. Thomas Crittenden in the front room to the left of the main hall.

When the tour was complete a reporter asked Mrs. Bond about the much-publicized "$19,000 bathroom," which is being constructed on the second floor for the bonds.

She laughed and said:

"It takes a while to build a $19,000 bathroom. It's not a $19,000 bathroom at all," she said, explaining there was much plumbing and wiring to be done in connection with the project. It has been criticized by some Democratic legislators because of its cost.

Some reporters asked to see the construction on the second floor, but a highway patrolman was posted at the bottom of the stairway. Mrs. Bond said the bathroom would be available for inspection when completed.

The bus driver is a bad driver

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter for all 100 of us who ride a public school bus. It was inspired by the squawk from the bus driver who was fed up with unruly kids who make driving dangerous.

This year we've had six different drivers. The worst of the bunch is the one we have now. To state the problem frankly, she can't drive. Also she needs to get her wrist watch fixed.

The bus is supposed to be at our stop at 7:45 a.m. Yesterday she showed up at 8:05. Three times this semester she appeared at 8:30. Once it was 9:00 a.m, which meant everybody missed the first class.

The other day we very nearly hit a car pulling out of a driveway. Twenty kids saw it but she didn't. This sort of thing happens a lot.

What's more, we are pakced in like sardines, two and three in one seat. Some kids have to sit in the aisles. We've signed petitions galore and nothing happens. Any suggestions?--- Last Stop In Michigan

Dear Last: If every kid on your bus sends a copy of this column to the superintendent of public schools, he'll get 100 beefs against the same driver. No superintendent can ignore such a protest. I assume your facts are accurate and the teacher of the first class in the morning will verify the allegations of tardiness described in this letter. Get going.

Dear Ann Landers: I'll be 19 in June and plan to be married in August. I should go to a doctor for a complete physical examination and some advice on birth control. But I just can't bring myself to take off my clothes in front of a strange man. Am I nuts or what?

I've made and cancelled two appointments. I became so nervous and sick I just couldn't go through with it. Is there something wrong with my mind? I've never needed to go to a doctor and the appointments were made by a friend who is disgusted with me. Please help.--- Deltaville, Va.

Dear Del: There are many women doctors these days and I hope you will call your county medical society and ask them to recommend one.

I wouldn't say you are nuts but I WOULD say you have a hang- up that needs exploration.

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in that letter signed Snubbed In California. (The woman and her husband were not invited to her neighbor's lovely party because they had neglected to drop a note saying they enjoyed the two previous parties.)

This might be hard to believe but some folks don't write thank- you notes because they don't know what to say. If they only knew that a couple of simple sentences would serve the purpose very nicely. Example: "Your party was delightful and we enjoyed meeting your friends. Thank you for including us."

Often that which is interpreted as indifference or snobishness is actually insecurity--- Ancient Lady

Dear Lady: You speak the truth. I've seen evidence of this time and time again. The same holds true for many people who are shamefully remiss about answering letters. They are uncomfortable about their penmanship or spelling or grammar, so they procrastinate and then they are too ashamed to write at all.

When the Big Ten basketball season reached the half-way mark, 17 freshmen had seen varsity action in conference games. Three of the men were fulltime starters

Kindergarten to register Wednesday

NEW MADRID — Kindergarten registration for the 1973-74 school year will be held Wednesday at Main Street Elementary School during school hours.

To be eligible, a child must be 5 years old by Sept. 30. A birth certificate and record of immunization are requested at the time of registration.

Children will be assigned to morning or afternoon sessions on the basis of whether they ride a bus, if the mother works out of the home and in the order of registration.

All children are required to register, including those who have attended Head Start.

Girl Scouts discuss summer camps

Day camp, Camp Latonka and the Bootheel Youth Fair were among the things discussed by Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scout leaders April 4 and Brownie leaders April 5.

Mrs. James Handy Moore led the meeting for leaders of older scouts at the home of Mrs. Jim Green, and Mrs. Tom Gilmore led the meeting of Brownie leaders at the home of Mrs. Charles Springs.

Mrs. Bill Lewis, day camp director, reported that day camp is scheduled June 4-8 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Bill Lewis farm near Avert. Beechgrove day camp is available to all Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts in the Matthews, Morehouse, Vanduser and Sikeston Neighborhoods.

Mrs. Lewis distributed folders giving detailed information to leaders for girls to use in registering and preparing for day camp. Registration deadline is May 1. Volunteers are needed, and any older scout or scouting adult who wishes to help should phone Mrs. Lewis at 471-9525, or Mrs. John Cowell at 471-2648.

Mrs. Pat Lea, responsible for camp promotion for Beechgrove day camp and Latonka, repotted that a group of Cadette scouts had contacted all Sikeston troops to present up- to- date information about both day camping and established camping. Mrs. Lea urged all leaders to encourage girls to register early for camps they wish to attend.

The 1973 Youth Fair Exhibit is scheduled July 30-Aug. 4 in Sikeston. Elaine Malcolm explained to Brownie leaders rules and regulations concerning the Youth Fair and stressed that children from all youth groups could participate, especially in the hobby or art divisions. Other divisions include foods, arts, crafts and science; shop and industrial arts; clothing; field crops and vegetables; demonstrations; horse rodeo; tractor rodeo and livestock show.

Mrs. Jerry Dyer will take pictures, and any troop that wishes to have pictures taken should phone her at 471-4323.

Ilena Aslin, director of Cotton Boll Council, announced that camping with core staff (director, cook and waterfront director) will be available to Junior, Cadette and Senior troops from Aug. 31 through Sept. 3 and again Sept. 7-9. Leaders will receive registration forms for this special camping by June 30 and are encouraged to contact girls for early registration.

Adult leaders are needed in the Girl Scout program, and anyone willing to help this fall should contact Mrs. Moore at 471-5525 or Mrs. Gilmore at 471-9108.

First Class Court of Awards will be held May 6 at 3 p.m. in the Dexter High School auditorium.

Littell moves up

Mark Littell, who just two years ago was firing fast balls for Gideon high school in state tournament action at Sikeston's VFW stadium against the SHS Bulldogs, moved closer to his life long dream of becoming a major league baseball player today as the Kansas City Royals of the American league announced the advancement of the hard throwing righthander from their class A Waterloo, Ia., farm club to the class AAA Omaha team. Last season Littell recorded a 10-9 record, but gunned down 199 Midwest League batters in only 153 innings to lead the league and worked four innings against the Atlanta Braves in an exhibition game that drew statewide recognition. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Littell of rural Gideon.

HR's fly

BOSTON (AP) — "It looked like a laugher, but it wasn't," Detroit Manager Billy Martin said of the game against Boston. And the Red Sox' Carl Yastrzemski thinks the rest of the season will be just as frantic—and end up just as tight.

"It'll be a tough race," Yaz said following the Tiger's 9-7 victory Monday over the Sox at cozy Fenway Park, the only American League game of the day. "They'll be there at the end."

In the two National League games, the Cincinnati Reds edged San Diego 7-6 and the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped Houston 2-1 in 13 innings.

"We'll be all right," said Detroit left fielder Willie Horton, who hit his first home run of the season in the fourth inning to drive in three runs. "It's a matter of getting things started. We've got to work together." Tony Taylor also homered for Detroit.

Boston Manager Eddie Kasko, ejected from the game in the third inning when he protested a called third strike, said: "We're not that bad. We just can't spot a guy like Mickey Lolich four runs."

The Tigers' left-handed starter, 1-2, was relieved after six innings, leading 8-3. "I lifted him because he had a lot of right-handed hitters coming up," Martin said. "I've also seen him faster and sharper."

The Red Sox kept pecking away at Detroit's lead, with Reggie Smith driving in a pair of runs in the sixth with the first his two homers. Dwight Evans knocking in one with a sacrifice fly in the seventh and Smith hammering a solo shot in the eighth. Carlton Fisk then slammed a two-run homer in the ninth.

Tony Perez, Dave Concepcion and Johnny Bench smacked home runs to lead the Reds over the Padres, while Lee Lacy's two-out tie-breaking single gave the Dodgers their fourth straight victory.

Bench's homer, his third of the year, gave Cincinnati its winning margin, producing a 7-4 lead which the Padres trimmed to one run on Nate Colbert's two-out shot in the ninth off reliever Clay Carroll.

In the third inning, Perez hit his third homer, then Cesar Geronimo walked, Phil Gagliano singled and Concepcion unloaded a three-run shot off Clay Kirby.

Ron Cey began the Dodgers' rally against Jim York, Houston's fifth pitcher, with a single. Bill Russell forced Cey, then stole second and Tom Paciorek was given an intentional walk before Lacy lined his single to center.

Baker honored

Mark Baker, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Baker of New Madrid, was honored at the Three Rivers Community College booster banquet in Poplar Bluff last week. The former NMHS all- state basketball star was recipient of the first annual Poplar Bluff Elks Lodge 110% award and received two other honors as followers of the Raiders, who finished fifth in the nation this season, honored the team and its coaches.

Jackson hurls perfect game

BENTON — What do you do for an encore? Jeff "Jethro" Jackson will be unable to better his performance the next time the big junior righthander takes the mound for the Kelly Hawks because Monday afternoon he pitched a prefect no-run, no-hit game against Oak Ridge, shutting out the Jays, 4-0.

Last Friday afternoon Jackson pitched a one hitter against Oran Eagles in tuning up for the big event to come Monday.

Jackson was big with the bat also as he slutted out three hits, including a double, in three times at bat and knocked in three of the Hawks four runs.

Kelly seems to have the pitching it takes to take them to the state baseball tournament for the second consecutive year as the perfect performance today marked the second no-hitter turned in by the Hawks staff thus far. Kenny Urhahn hurled a no-hitter earlier in the season and now Jackson has allowed only one hit in his last 14 innings. Jackson fanned 166 batters enroute to his perfect game.

Bob Jackson was the only other Hawk to get more than one hit in the game, going two for three.

Kelly scored the only run they needed to notch their fifth victory against two losses, in the bottom of the first but added insurance runs in the third and crossing the plate twice in the sixth. The Jays saw nothing but smoke for seven innings.

Kelly resumes action Thursday afternoon against the Scott Central Braves in a Scott- Missisippi conference game. The Hawks play Sikeston Friday afternoon.

CHS remains undefeated

CHARLESTON — After being called at 4½ innings because of rain, the Charleston Blue Jays picked up their third straight win to keep their record clear. Oran fell victim to the Jays Monday afternoon 4-0.

The wet conditions kept both teams from moving and it was not until the bottom of the second that Charleston was able to bring their first run across the plate. The Eagles could not get their bats swinging against the Jays pitcher, Dan Bailey. Charleston picked up their final three runs during the bottom of the third inning to give them the winning decision.

Medlock had two hits for two RBI's while Halter contributed one hit for another 2 RBI's to lead the Jays in that department.

Curtis suffered the loss for the Oran Eagles.

Wednesday the Jays will travel to Scott Central in an effort to remain undefeated.

Colonels pacers win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In the American Basketball Association, it's disregard-theregular-season time.

The Carolina Cougars and Utah Stars, who finished the 82game season in first place in the Eastern and Western division races, respectively, are finding they can't rest on those laurels. Those statistics don't count—at least not to the Kentucky Colonels and Indiana Pacers.

For in the playoffs, basketball's second season, it's what have you done lately. And lately the Colonels and Pacers have been doing it to the Cougars and Stars.

Monday night, Kentucky defeated Carolina 118-108 and Indiana topped Utah 108-94. Both winners gained 2-1 advantages in their best-of-seven semifinals.

No games were scheduled Monday in the National Basketball Association. Tonight the Los Angeles Lakers, who were extended to seven tough games before eliminating Chicago, host the Golden State Warriors, 4-2 winners over Milwaukee, in the opener of the Western Conference finals. The Eastern finals, with Boston leading the Knicks 1-0, resume in New York on Wednesday night.

The Colonels had erased the Cougar's home-court advantage by gaining a split of the two games in Carolina. "We played the whole season for the homecourt advantage and we've won that from them already," said Kentucky's Walt Simon before the Colonels went out to protect their newly-won edge.

They did just that by getting 32 points from Dan Issel. Artis Gilmore added 19 along with his game-high 15 rebounds."Our offense was geared to the two big men (Issel and Gilmore) and we got more production from them tonight," said Kentucky Coach Joe Mullaney.

The Cougars, down by 12 at the half, could never get much closer after the intermission. Tom Owens led Carolina's attack with 17 points.

At Indianapolis, George McGinnis scored 31 points and Donnie Freeman added 29 as the Pacers gained their second straight victory over Utah and their 18th in a row at home.

The Pacers had left the court at halftime trailing 50-47 and were down 67-59 with 5:59 left in the third quarter. Indiana then reeled off nine straight points and never trailed again.

Feds baseball big in Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Convict baseball has its unique brand of humor but spring drills at the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary are little different from preseason training anywhere—except for the 42-foot outfield wall that doubles as a barrier to freedom.

They call themselves the Feds and the name is embroidered across the fronts of their red-and-white striped uniforms.

The 16 inmates who make up the roster are the elite of penitentiary baseball.

The Feds, who won their 1973 opener 17-5 against the semipro Columbia, S.C., team two weeks ago, have a 50-game weekend schedule which includes most of the state's college teams and several semipro ball clubs.

"We have the best on-the road record of anyone," quipped one Fed. "They won't let us out of here to play nowhere else."

The Feds are part of a wideranging prison recreation program instituted by Warden J.D. Henderson and recreation supervisor John Clark.

On the well-kept field, leather gloves popped with incessant regularity and the crack of fungo bats echoed off the huge green wall that bears traces of inmate art. An octagonal guard tower looms overhead in centerfield.

The team runs through batting and infield practice daily at the field in the rear of the southeast Atlanta prison facility. Each night it attracts hundreds of spectators who watch the practices almost as rabidly as they await the Saturday and Sunday doubleheaders.

When the "fans" gather, the chatter starts.

"Hey, you look like sandlot out there," one of them heckled.

"That's all right. I ain't worried," the pitcher shouted back. "I still got five years left on my 'contract.'"

"We're an international team," a second baseman said. "And we've got the best recruiting service in the world— the FBI. Only they've been sending us addicts and ain't been arresting no pitchers."

The Feds field their own umpires—graduates of a National Baseball Congress-approved school at the institution.

Despite the enjoyment of the sport, their laughs in the dugout and the self-deprecatory chides, they haven't forgotten where they are or what lies ahead. Baseball is just a way to make it all seem bearable.

Tonight's schedule features a rematch between the tag teams of Ronnie Rickets and the Big Ox against Buddly Chander and Tuffy Taylor. The second event has Jake Dalton battling Bo Taylor.

'One-two, USA'

BOSTON (AP) — First an Olympic marathon victory, and now the Boston Marathon. America's prestige in long distance running is on the upswing.

Jon Anderson, a 23-year-old Cornell University graduate from Eugene, Ore., shocked favored foreign runners with a smashing victory in the 77th Boston Marathon on Monday, whipping a record field of 1,384 starters.

Following Frank Shorter's marathon triumph in the Olympic Games at Munich last summer, Anderson's success was a big boost to United States running. Americans long have dominated the world at shorter races and now appear coming into their own at distance running.

Tom Fleming, a 21-year-old college student from Wayne, N.J., expressed the feelings of most Americans after he finished second behind Anderson in the 26-mile, 385-yard run from Hopkinton to Boston.

"One-two, USA," Fleming said as he congratulated Anderson in the dressing room before it became crowded with sunbaked finishers. "This is just great."

Despite balmy weather and a blistering sun, Anderson covered the course in 2 hours, 16 minutes, 3 seconds, a noteworthy time although nearly five minutes off the record set by England's Ron Hill three years ago. Fleming was second in 2:17.46, with Finland's Olavi Suomalainen third in 2:18.21.

BOSTON (AP) — The 39th running of the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap on June 17 highlights the summer meet this year at Suffolk Downs which gets under way April 16.

Joseph E. Cresci, president of Suffolk Downs, said Wednesday the meet will offer 13 stakes and handicap events valued at $225,000.

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — The head basketball coach at Utica College for four seasons has been fired following a dispute with the school administration concerning priorities of the athletic and physical education programs, it was announced Wednesday.

Tom Huggins, Utica's athletic director, will succeed Joe Rosado as head mentor. A college spokesman said the school did not intend to de-emphasize its varsity basketball program.

$27,489,179 budget proposed for plant

NEW MADRID-- Operation and construction of the city's 600 megawatt steam generating station in St. Jude Industrial Park were the main topics of discussion at the city council meeting Monday night.

The proposed operating budget for the plant for the fiscal year from June 1, 1973 to May 31, 1974 is $27,489,179 and was presented to the board by Ed Jehle, manager of Associated Electric Cooperative Inc. of Springfield.

Power plant construction payments approved were $498,455.31.

The board also requested that the firm of Ernst and Ernst of New York certified public accountants be contacted for an estimate of the cost of conducting the annual audit of the generating plant.

Jehle also told the board that plans were progressing for construction of a second generating station by Associated Electric and that in the near future an agreement for joint usage of the docking and loading facilities by the city and Associated Electric would be presented to the city. Since the facilities are city owned, the agreement will be presented to the voters for approval.

April 24 and 25 were set as dates for dog licensing and vaccination. The license fee is $2 and the dogs will be vaccinated free. The city fire station will be the location for the licensing and vaccination.

Court will pay mileage for agronomist

BENTON — The County Court said Monday they would pay the mileage for an agronomist to come to Scott County to meet with farmers for at least two days a week.

If a farmer needs the assistance of an agronomist all he has to do is contact the court and one will be sent to help.

This, the court said, is in addition to the $15,000 appropriated to the University of Missouri Extension Council for money for an agronomist.

Also, mileage will be paid for a youth agent to come to Scott County to meet with farmers.

No farmer should feel he has to do without the aid of an agronomist, the court said.

Roberts fined

CHARLESTON — Clarence C. Roberts, 55, of Charleston, arrested Monday on a charge of driving while intoxicated, was fined $107 this morning in City Court.

Park producers call for better research unit

BENTON— Area pork producers Monday night heard Bill Turner, a West Plains pork producer, speak about a proposal to obtain swine research facilities in Scott County at a meeting sponsored by the Missouri Pork Producers Association and University of Missouri College of Agriculture.

Pork producers from Scott, Stoddard, New Madrid, Mississippi, Pemiscot and Dunklin counties attended the meeting to voice their opinions and ideas on the projected program.

Turner said he had worked with livestock for the past eight and one- half years and is aware of some of the problems in connection with obtaining a swine research program.

Turner said Texas is one of the newer states to engage in the hog business and already has a lot more research facilities than Missouri.

Ronnie Burger, president of Scott County Pork Producers Association, said the proposal calls for a moderately priced set of facilities, equipped and furnished for research of nutrition, reproduction, diseases, farrowing and management.

One proposal would ask the state legislature to give priority to a one- time appropriation covering two- thirds of the estimated costs- $2,000- and call for swine- related industries to equip and furnish the facilities at a cost of $50,000 and for Missouri hog farmers to raise a volunteer quota of $53,900.

Each producer agreed during the meeting to contribute one cent per hog, and swine- related industries of the county agreed to give one-half cent per hog.

Broken down into counties the agreements would raise:

Scott County, the projected quota at one cent per head from producers, $321.60, and projected quota at one- half cent per head from related industry, $160.80, for a total quota of $482.40.

Stoddard County, producers, $462.40; related industry, $231.20; total quota, $693.60.

Dunklin County, producers, $221.60; related industry, $110.80; total quota, $332.40.

Mississippi County, producers, $158.40; related industry, $79.20; total quota, $237.60.

New Madrid County, producers, $132.80; related industry, $66.40; total quota, $192.20.

Pemiscot County, producers, $22.40; related industry, $11.20; total quota, $33.60;

According to Burger, the total for the six- county area would add up to $1,971.80 to be presented to the legislature.

Chairmen were selected in four of the counties to head a committee to help reach the projected goals. The chairmen include: Peter Myers , New Madrid County; Vince Hulshoff and Paul Hulshoff; Mississippi County John Odom, John Harper and Dr. D.F. Morris; Scott County, and Bob Mayer and Dr. L.E. Parmer, Stoddard County.

The committee members will talk to people in their counties engaged in the pork producing industry.

Missouri bases not affected

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., said today in Washington no military bases in Missouri will be affected by the consolidation and reduction program of the Department of Defense brought about by the end of the war.

"The reorganization program necessitated by the end of the Vietnam war and the move to a smaller and voluntary military force has resulted in the announcement today by the U.S. Army that it plans to close four bases and cut back 31 others which result in a savings of $57.8 million," Ichord said.

"The total (plan of) the Department of Defense is either to close or cutback some 274 installations at a savings of $375 million. However no military bases in Missouri were affected by the cutbacks," Ichord said.

A spokesman for Ichord said no one knows how future Defense Department cuts will affect Missouri bases.

There had been some concern among Missouri's congressional delegation that Ft. Leonard Wood near Waynesville would be closed.

Highlights and Sidelights

From our State Capital

JEFFERSON CITY — When the General Assembly is wrestling with massive problems like state reorganization, restoration of the death penalty, abortion, and a nearly $2 billion budget, it is easy to lose track of less exciting, but significant, pieces of legislation like state- wide voter registration.

However, when anyone is on the verge of forgetting voter registration, Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick is around with the reminder that Missouri is one of only six states in the Union without a state- wide, uniform system for the registration of voters.

Kirkpatrick made voter registration one of this campaign promises, and has been working hard making speeches around the state in support of legislation before the General Assembly.

A voter registration bill already has won the approval of the House, and the Senate is expected to take action on the measure before the end of the session.

The bill would make it mandatory for the first time for persons to register before they are eligible to vote. Voter registration is mandatory right now in cities with a apopulation of 10,000 or more, and in Clay, Jackson and St. Louis counties. Additionally, many counties have adopted voter registration on a local option basis, including tiny Worth County with only 2,324 registered voters. However, there are still 66 Missouri counties with no voter registration, and it is to them that this bill would apply.

Voter registration was not much of a probm in the past, especially in rural counties. Election judges generally knew most of the voters in their precincts because the population was fairly stable. But legal and sociological factors have changed that situation. The Supreme Court reduced the residency requirement from one year to 30 days, which in turn reduced the likelihood that precinct judges would know everyone eligible to vote. Add to that the reality of a more mobile population with people coming and going and not staying in one place for long, and precinct judges have real problems.

"The day is past," Kirkpatrick said, "when we can expect election judges and clerks to know every voter personally."

State- wide registration would help election officials in other ways, Kirkpatrick noted, by enabling them to better predict the amount of election supplies they will need, reducing waste and cutting down on election day expenses.

Kirkpatrick's administrative assistant, John Ashford, cited several other reasons for uniform registration laws.

One was that it would help protect the integrity of elections. A voter would have a registration slip which would be stamped at election time making it considerably more difficult for him to vote more than once.

It also would be helpful to candidates by providing them with a list of the registered voters.

Uniform treatment of voters would result from adoption of such a system, according to Ashford. If a voter had his registration slip, he would not have to depend on the whim of an election judge or election clerk to exercise his franchise.

The thought then comes to mind that if state- wide registration would be a boon to voters, officials, candidates and the Secretary of State, why has it taken Missouri so long to get around to enacting it?

The answer in this case, as in so many others, is money. Small counties contend they cannot afford to pay the costs of registration. Kirkpatrick's office estimates that it would cost counties an average of 90 cents per voter to register voters the first year, and 41 cents per voter for each year thereafter. The average number of voters in the 66 Missouri counties without registration is 5,400, which boils down to $5,000 per county.

This sum was enough to block passage of state- wide registration for many years as rural legislators dominated the General Assembly. But since redistricting, the edge has been slipping.

Guilty pleas rejected; pair must stand trial

KENNETT — Circuit Court Judge Flake McHaney has ordered two Malden teen- agers to stand trial by jury on drug charges after refusing to accept their pleas of guilty which had been entered earlier.

Judge McHaney, who earlier had ordered pre-sentance investigations and reports on the pair after they pleaded builty last month, told Ronnie D. Cohen and Richard M. Benjamin that the probation reports indicted they were "uncooperative in revealing the source of their supply, and that the two didn't indicate any sincere regret regarding the crime."

In light of their refusal to cooperate and reveal their source, Judge McHaney ordered the guilty pleas set aside and entered not guilty pleas for the two, hinting that a jury might not be so lenient if they were convicted of the charge.

Judge McHaney cited a recent jury trial in Stoddard County where a defendant received a total of 17 years in prison for possessing marijuana.

Prosecuting Attorney Charles Baker has charged Cohen and Benjamin with selling a controlled substance, marijuana, to an undercover highway patrolman in Malden prior to a recent raid. Last month, Cohen and Benjamin withdrew not guilty pleas entered earlier and admitted to the charge, stating they had sold the marijuana for $50 after the agent had come to their residence asking where it could be bought.

At that time, Judge McHaney warned the defendants that the minimum sentence was five years in prison and the maximum was life imprisonment or death.

In his action Wednesday, Judge McHaney, referring to a probation which the two were supposedly to get, said probation was to be earned, not given, to be deserved and not treated lightly.

House ok's continued price control authority for Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has won House approval of legislation continuing his price-control authority, and administration sources say he may use it to impose a new freeze.

That report came Monday, after the House passed, 293 to 114, a bill giving Nixon essentially what he asked: extension of his economic control powers for a year with minimum restrictions on his discretion.

The administration sources said Nixon has been presented recommendations ranging from a freeze, to tightening of the present largely voluntary controls, to a free market system without controls. The President's decision should come "very quickly," the sources added.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz has come around to the view that controls in the present economic climate must be tightened, the sources said. Shultz is known to oppose economic controls and wants to see them phased out.

The administration moved to the largely voluntary Phase 3 control system on Jan. 11. Many economists outside the administration said this gave a big psychological boost for price increases. Organized labor has said Nixon should tighten controls now, adding that labor unions will be forced to seek large wage settlements unless strong action is taken on the price front.

Nixon's authority over economic controls is due to expire April 30.

The final measure extending his authority will be shaped in conference with the Senate. But that body also rejected congressional price ceilings when it approved the one-year extension, so the conference cannot write them in.

Senate insists on oath testimony in Watergate hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Still deadlocked with the White House, the Senate committee investigating the Watergate case insists that presidential aides testify under oath at public hearings beginning next month.

The committee agreed without dissent Monday to support Chairman Sam J. Ervin's demand that White House aides testify under the same conditions as all other witnesses.

Public hearings are scheduled to begin May 15.

The committee already has subpoenaed President Nixon's personal attorney, Herbert W. Kalmbach of Los Angeles, reported The Washington Post in today's editions.

The Post quoted reliable sources as saying the committee instructed Kalmbach to bring with him all relevant campaign finance records.

Kalmbach, who holds no official government position, has handled legal matters for the President and worked in the Nixon re-election campaign.

The Post said Kalmbach is the closest Nixon associate subpoenaed so far by the committee investigating the Watergate bugging and break-in and related allegations of Republican espionage and sabotage during the presidential campaign.

In another development, Martha Mitchell said she wants to testify before the Ervin committee to "tell the senators some things they never heard in their life."

In a telephone call to The Associated Press, Mrs. Mitchell asserted that the White House told "a God-blessed lie" when it denied that Nixon met Saturday with her husband, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

Told of Mrs. Mitchell's assertion, Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren again said that Nixon and Mitchell did not meet.

Mitchell, the first chairman of Nixon's re-election committee, said Saturday that he "can't wait" to face the Ervin investigators.

Ervin, D-N.C., has threatened to seek the arrest of any White House aide who refuses a subpoena to testify under oath.

Weekend rains halt river drop

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Heavy weekend rainfall over most of Missouri abruptly halted the receding waters of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers, causing both to begin rising again Monday, but flood control officials predicted the new crests would cause no flood problems.

"There shouldn't be a great change," a spokesman for the Army Corps of Engineers said. "It's a matter of waiting and watching to see if more rains come on top of it."

The National Weather Service said the Missouri, swollen by more than an inch of rain at St. Joseph and Kansas City, will crest this week well above flood stage at most stations across the state.

The Missouri, as much as 12 feet above flood stage at the beginning of the month, rose Monday 3.5 feet at St. Joseph to 15.4 feet and more than a food at Jefferson City. The river remained at flood level at Hermann but rose nearly one-half foot at St. Charles toward a new crest of 31 feet Saturday.

An overflow of as much as eight feet is expected in the lower reaches of the Missouri by the weekend, the weather service said.

On the Mississippi, which was still above flood stage at most points from Quincy, Ill., south, a new crest of 35 feet was forecast for St. Louis by Saturday, five feet above flood stage.

Judge orders board of visitors for jails

CARUTHERSVILLE — Judge William Ragland has ordered the establishment of a board of visitors for the inspection of all the jails in Pemiscot County. The action was taken in compliance with Section 221.320 of the Missouri Statutes and was done after the required number of petitioner was obtained.

Pemiscot County Circuit Court

The effort to establish a board of visitors to inspect the local jails began in December of last year. Ragland said Father Wally Ellinger of Cape Girardeau, Secretariate for Social Concerns, of the Springfield- Cape Girardeau Diocese, Roman Catholic Church, began the process of circulating the petitions.

"I believe Pemiscot and New Madrid counties are the last two counties in Missouri not to have a committee appointed to inspect the jails," the judge said.

Pemiscot County Sherif Thad Shelly said in January that he was informed that a jail committee would soon be initiated. He said plumbing work was being done at the local jail and that some other areas of the jail were being cleaned up.

"The trusties haven't been doing a very good job in keeping the jail clean," the sheriff said then.

Although the judge said in December that he expected the petition to be filed "within a short time, possibly this month", it was the second week of April before the jail committee was named.

Six persons have been designated to serve on the Circuit Court Board of Visitors. Democrats are Robert Whitener of Hayti, Mrs. Norma Sellers of Caruthersville and Mrs. Helen Boswell of Steele. Republicans are Robert Richardson of Bragg City, Mrs. Louise Mathis of Braggadocio, and Willie Wright of Caruthersville.

Robert Whitener was named temporary chairman by the court for the purpose of the organizational meeting of the board.

Whitener and Richardson were appointed to serve three-year terms, Mrs. Sellers and Mrs. Mathis were appointed to serve two- year terms and Willie Wright and Mrs. Helen Boswell were appointed to serve one- year terms.

According to statutes pertaining to the formation of a board of visitors, the board will serve without compensation and must meet within a week after receiving notice of appointment. The secretary elected at the organizational meeting must file a report of that meeting with the clerk of the Circuit Court.

Included in the duties of the board, according to the statutes: "... examine every department of each institution, and shall ascertain its condition as to effective and economical administration, the cleanliness, discipline and comfort of its inmates and other respects, and at least once in every three months all of said institutions shall be visited by said board or a committee of its members."

In case the board finds anything "injurious" to the county or to the inmates of the jails, "it shall be their duty to address a memorial to the County Court, or other officials having jurisdiction."

The board must prepare a full report of their proceedings during the year with such recommendations as they deem advisable. This same report must be filed with the director of welfare of the department of public health and welfare on or before the first day of November of each year.

bringing the appellate court up to date on the affected districts.

Seventeen either have come into compliance or under court jurisdiction, he said, and the other 25 were sent letters March 24 asking for new plans.

Lawton, Okla., and Anne Arundel County, Md., submitted acceptable plans, seven others have sent in proposals, one is in the process of preparing a plan, three have expressed desire to comply voluntarily and another appears to be in compliance, he said.

"The remaining 11 districts have declined to submit revised desegregation plans ...," he said.

Enforcement action against the 85 other districts would be premature without more study, Holmes added.

Thirty-nine of the districts never were formally determined to be in violation he said, and at least 20 others appear in compliance now.

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The East Prairie Future Farmers of America Chapter was awarded the 1973 Southeast Missouri District Trophy presented by the Sikeston, Caruthersville and Farmington Farmers Production Credit Associations at District Contest held Friday and Saturday. ## Weather fouls work

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — More foul weather, including a near blizzard in northern Missouri, permitted an average of less than one day of field work last week, according to the Missouri Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Plowing was ony 11 per cent completed — compared with 74 per cent a year ago.

After the snow melted and the rain reappeared, the foul weather returned over the weekend, with rain reported over much of the state.

The wet weather has left wheat in only fair condition throughout the state.

Only four per cent of the oat crop has been planted, compared to 87 per cent a year ago. In the northern third of the state, it was less than one per cent. For central and westcentral Missouri it is only two per cent.

made.

An ordinanace was passed following a request by Police Judge Tom Nunn to make it illegal not to stop when a police officer turns on his red light and to refuse to show driver's license to a police officer on request.

City Attorney Paul McGhee reported on April 3 city election results and an ordinance was passed affirming election results.

Mayor Willis Conner appointed himself, McGhee and aldermen Leman Godwin, Richard Miller and James T. Williams to the budget committee.

McGhee reported on a meeting he and the mayor attended at the Public Service Commission in Jefferson City on April 12 concerning the installation of flashing lights and audible signals at the railroad crossing on Locust Street.

Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. will pay all costs except the city's share, which will be paid from a special tax fund administered by the state by the Public Service Commission. There will be no cost to the city for the signal and warning devices which will cost $17,100. The city will pay for the cost of installing stop signs at the crossing on One Mile Road.

Ben Cowan Jr. was appointed to the zoning commission on a recommendation from commission chairman Barney Miller.

The council discussed the obstruction of street crossings by Missouri Pacific trains which remain on the crossings for longer than the 15 minutes allotted. It was decided that misdemeanor charges could be filed by the city against the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. should this happen again.

Conner informed the council that city policemen Kenny Whettington and David Townsend would attend a breathalyzer school at the Missouri State Highway Patrol Academy in Jefferson City from Sept. 30 through Oct. 12. The mayor said the only cost to the city would be transportation to and from the school.

Conner presented a written complaint designed by Lowell Ragsdel of 137 Grissom St. against his neighbor, Logan Cook. The complaint requested the council to take action against Cook to force him to hook on to the city's sewer system. It was also pointed out that Cook had an outdoor privy which is a nuisance to Ragsdol.

According to a city ordinance, anyone living within the required hook-up distance of 150 feet from the sewer line must hook on. The matter was turned over to aldermen in ward three.

The council agreed to give Conner permission to purchase a double-barrel street sweeper from the Saso Co. of Grand Prairie, Tex. at a cost of $260.

McGhee agreed to look into the required curfew time for minors following a request by Police Chief Tom Nunn.

An ordinance was passed for the paving of streets in ward three of the city.
